Britain Favors Plans to Relax Import Control

More Products From Canada Would Reach U.K. Markets

OTTAWA, May 21 (CP). — Informed quarters disclosed today that Britain is giving favorable consideration to a plan to ease import controls and so allow more Canadian manufactured goods to reach the British market.

The informants said she also is considering a scheme to release more dollars from her exchange pool to allow the British West Indies to increase purchases from Canada.

These developments, favorable to the Canadian exporter, emerged as finance, trade and economic officials from both countries plunged into a three-day secret trade conference.

The meeting, in Parliament's East Block, was the fifth session of the Canada-United Kingdom Continuing Trade Committee, a trade link born of Britain's critical exchange days in 1948.

NOT MANDATORY

Though it is not mandatory that the governments accept the group's recommendations, informants recalled that major decisions reached at previous meetings were adopted.

Britain's plan to ease import controls likely will be done through expansion of the token import scheme. Under this scheme, Canadian exporters were allowed to ship into Britain 20 per cent of the value of their goods bought by Britain in pre-war years. This quota was doubled in January.

Informants believed that within a month, Britain will either announce a further percentage increase, or add further goods to the unrestricted list to widen the varieties which may be shipped.

WANT INCREASE

The British West Indies have been particularly anxious to get U.K. agreement on an increase in dollars to buy more goods from Canada.

Canada has repeatedly pointed out that the B.W.I. area last year purchased $30,000,000 worth of goods from Canada, while Canada bought about double that amount from the British colonies. This left a big balance in favor of the B.W.I.

Canada contends that part of this balance should have been used to build up purchases from Canadian suppliers.

Mercy Flights Speed Two To Hospitals

VANCOUVER, May 21 (CP) — Mercy flights today saved the life of a three-year-old boy and sped a woman to hospital in time to bear her child.

Dean Blake Boutillier was brought to Vancouver General Hospital from Port Alberni after he was found face downward and unconscious in a water-filled ditch near his home.

He was first taken to hospital at Port Alberni, where a tube was placed in his throat to allow him to breathe. On the trip over in an Associated Air Taxi plane, the boy was given oxygen and ether by a doctor.

The boy was reported in "fairly good" condition tonight following an operation.

Another Associated Air Taxi pilot made an emergency flight from Davies Bay, Texada Island, to Comox, enabling Mrs. L. Gibb of Davies Bay to have her child just after her arrival at Comox hospital.

Europeans Trained in Canada

Three of the first 84 graduates of pilot training in Canada under the North Atlantic Treaty are shown after receiving their wings at a graduation ceremony in Centralia, Ont., last week. Six nations, Belgium, France, Italy, the Netherlands, Norway and Canada, were represented. This National Defence picture shows three Italians, Lieut. Manghe, Guarantelli, Lieut. Franco Terracina and Lieut. Pero Biazzola, admiring each other's newly-designed N.A.T.O. wings. (CP Photo)

Diplomats Fear Iranian Crisis May Break Out Into Violence

TEHRAN, Iran, May 21 (AP) — The Iranian oil issue generated so much heat today that some diplomats feared it might break out into anti-British and anti-American violence.

The foreign ministry retorted sharply to an American statement urging moderation on both sides, and declared any delay in carrying out oil nationalization would "provoke the anger of the Iranian people."

Moslem religious leaders summoned a mass meeting for tomorrow to demonstrate the rising temper against the United States and Britain.

THREATENS WAR

The prime mover in the demonstration was Ayatullah Seyed Abolghassem Kashani who has threatened a holy war if Britain resists an ouster from her great oil refinery and fields in southern Iran.

Kashani, a leading priest, called on Moslems to turn the birthday of their 12th prophet into a vent for their "hatred" of British intereference and of the "American government's menacing statement."

In Iranian eyes, the United States committed itself to Britain's side by urging Iranians to "achieve their legitimate objectives through friendly negotiations."

The United States State Department reiterated America's "great interest" in Iran's territorial integrity and independence — a clear warning to Russia not to take the oil dispute as an excuse for moving in.

REPLIES TO U.S.

The foreign ministry's reply to the United States declaration was handed out at a press conference tonight.

Hossein Makki, secretary-general of Mossadegh's National bloc said in parliament Sunday that "it is Britain and the United States who are pushing us toward Russia."

Britain has warned of the "most serious consequences" if Iran fails to negotiate, and offered to send a high-level mission.

Informed sources said Mossadegh already had rejected this note.

Agenda Talks Still Stymied

PARIS, May 21 (INS) — Big Four deputies, opening the 11th week of negotiations, failed again tonight to agree on whether the Council of Foreign Ministers should discuss American bases in Europe and the North Atlantic Treaty.

Soviet Deputy Andrei Gromyko, declaring the Allied subjects were a cause of tension in Europe, insisted that they should be discussed at any meeting of the Foreign Ministers of the United States, Britain, France and Russia.

The Western deputies were equally staunch in opposing inclusion of the subjects but they pointed out that the Soviet Foreign Minister could raise the matter under a broader heading such as "causes of international tension."

Neither side would back down during this afternoon's three-hour discussion.

Ottawa Plans Jet-Part Plant

OTTAWA, May 21 (CP) — The Defence Production Department has purchased an Ottawa Valley plant and is turning it over to a United Kingdom firm for manufacture of jet engine parts, informed quarters disclosed today.

Korea Line Pivots; Reds Flee in West, May Strike in East

New Enemy Threat Rises As Allies Barrel North

TOKYO, May 22 (Tuesday) (AP) — Allied troops chased retreating Communists as far as 26 miles in west and central Korea today but a new tank-led Communist offensive threat arose in the east.

Allied forces rammed north along two main highways north and northwest of Seoul. One force reached within ten miles or less of the 38th parallel.

Two days ago Allied forces were fighting off Reds in Seoul outskirts.

SITUATION REVERSED

U.N. forces held the initiative on a 30-mile arc north of Seoul. But the situation was reversed in the mountainous east-central area.

An Allied officer said huge armored Red forces were massing 50 to 75 miles northeast of Seoul.

He warned the Reds may strike in hilly east-central Korea with even greater force than the 125,000-man drive that opened there last Wednesday night.

The U.S. 2nd Division stopped that drive in five days.

DEFEND PUNGAH

Monday the division cut down more Reds attacking near Pungam, about 70 miles northeast of Seoul.

Other heavy losses were inflicted on three Red battalions by a 200-ton bombing attack last night. The battalions were hit and routed in front of the 2nd Division as they prepared to attack.

Allied sources estimated the Communists lost nearly 60,000 men in five days on the east and west-central fronts by ground action alone.

TAKE MUNSAN

North of Seoul, U.S., British and South Korean units rammed back into Uijongbu and Munsan, 11 and 22 miles above the old Korean capital. Munsan is only ten miles south of the 38th parallel.

(Reuters said British, Australian and Canadian troops driving north of Seoul, came under Communist machine gun fire at one stage but brushed the Communists aside and continued their advance.

(Bill Boss, Canadian Press correspondent, reported from the west-central sector that Canadian troops moved up nearly three miles through pouring rain without meeting opposition.)

STILL STRONG

The Communists, however, still are capable of hitting back with heavy new attacks in the East, some 65 miles northeast of Seoul, if they can regain balance.

A.P. Correspondent William C. Barnard, on the East-Central front, said "the Communist timetable was thrown out of whack" by the stalwart defences of the U.S. 2nd Division.

This Division handed the Reds "one of the most stunning defeats of the war," in repulsing the savage five-day onslaught.

This single American division killed or wounded 37,000 Chinese Reds in five days by conservative estimate, the U.S. Eighth Army announced.

The whole 10th Corps, of which the 2nd Division is a part, cost the Chinese more than 45,000 casualties according to an estimate by Lieut.-Gen. Edward M. Almond, the corps commander.

Of these Almond said almost half were inflicted on Sunday in the biggest one-day toll of the war.

Never Had It So Good Well-Fed Pats Agree

By BILL BOSS

WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA, May 21 (CP) — This is one for the boys. Arctic cooks in this theatre don't once admit to do with all the rations they're getting.

Says Sgt. John Moore of Yorkton, Sask., the man who handles rations stores for the Princess Patricias:

"It's been a problem trying to find the best use for all the rations we're getting.

"We get our fresh rations from the Americans. They also supply us with our tinned combat rations. All our dry and canned stuff comes from British sources."

Moore agrees with observers who think that no army anywhere in history has been as well fed as the Eighth United States Army in Korea. Not have cooks been as well equipped.

Not that Canadian cooks have been working in the front lines.

With the Patricias apparently specializing in mountain warfare, and all their supplies reaching them on the backs of Korean porters only essentials are sent up to them.

The most compact form is the American C (for combat) ration, a box containing full rations for three balanced meals.

But even when the Patricias are in the lone the ration point from which the supplies are drawn has fresh eggs, meats, fruits, bread, potatoes.

Unused 'Chutes Diminish Hopes

HALIFAX, May 21 (CP) — Three unopened parachutes were found near the wreckage of an R.C.A.F. Dakota in the Labrador wilds today, leaving scant hope that any of its four crew members will be found alive.

The Dakota crashed last Monday on a routine flight. The body of the pilot, F/O Owen Foster, 25, of North Vancouver, was found yesterday by a land party.

The air force still was searching the crash area tonight, some 130 miles southwest of Goose Bay.

Lifetime Search Pledged For Missing Young Wife

SPOKANE, May 21 (AP) — A young engineer whose wife disappeared here almost a month ago has quit his job and said today he will "devote the rest of my life, if necessary," to find her.

The engineer, John Easter, 35, reported to police April 24 that his wife, Jane, 23, simply vanished after he brought her here from Cutlew, Wash., to take a civil service examination. Police haven't found a trace.

He said his wife is the daughter of Dr. George S. Lorkett, a professor at Stanford University.

The Easters moved to Cutlew, 140 miles northwest of here, from Palo Alto, Calif., last February. He was working there as a civilian radar engineer with the air force.

Easter said he and his wife were happy in Cutlew and planned to buy a house there. He said she had travelers' cheques when she came to Spokane and intended to buy him a boat for his birthday. Only one of the cheques had been cashed, he said.

Easter, a graduate of San Jose College, has suggested amnesia. Deputy Sheriff John Scott said there is no evidence of foul play.

Columbia Crest Expected Soon

PORTLAND, May 21 (AP) — The rising Columbia River, expected to crest at Vancouver, Wash., tomorrow at 20.6 feet, forced closure of a sawmill and continued to spread over low pasture land today.

Water from Lake River, backed up by the Columbia, forced the Ridgefield Shingle Company to halt operations.

The weather bureau said the river should begin dropping after tomorrow's crest, 5.6 feet above flood stage, but may rise again later in the spring.

The Bureau of Reclamation is controlling the flow at Grand Coulee Dam, where another 6½ to seven feet of water storage space remains, river forecaster Elmer Fisher said.

Only minor damage resulted from last year's 25-foot crest on the Columbia.

Spectacular Car Crash Ends High-Speed Chase

A spectacular crash at the corner of Government and Discovery Streets sent one man to hospital late last night following a high-speed car chase by city police through Victoria streets.

Suffering from a back injury is Edward Cooper passenger in the late-model U-drive car which crashed into a pole at Discovery after failing to make a turn off Government.

Two other occupants of the car, James Thomas, and John G. Crystal, were uninjured.

According to police reports, the car was first spotted travelling at a high rate of speed north on Douglas.

Two police cars in the vicinity gave chase, one trailing the speeding U-drive and the other attempting to head it off.

Police say the car turned down Herald and turned off its lights and then sped around onto Government. Turning onto Discovery, the car skidded wide and hit a telephone pole slewing around into the side of a building.

SAW CAR HIT

The pole was marked "Danger, —4,000 volts."

Constable Angus Stewart was heading down Discovery from the other direction when he saw the car hit.

The three men are reported to be seamen on leave from a weathership tied up here.

Police say a charge will be laid in connection with the accident.

Damage to the U-drive is estimated at about $600, the third car of the particular rental firm to be so damaged within a few months.

Bradley Opposes Risk Of Weakening Formosa

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP) — Gen. Omar N. Bradley said today there is no military objection to Chinese Nationalist troops harassing Communist China from Formosa so long as American forces are not involved. But he advised against such a move.

General Bradley told Senators the Nationalists might suffer such losses in men and equipment that the security of Formosa would be jeopardized.

Some day, he argued, it might be "proper" to use the Chinese Nationalists in the war as Gen. Douglas MacArthur has proposed. He insisted now is not the time.

OUTSPOKEN

The chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff gave these views to the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations committees in his third day of outspoken opposition to the war program proposed by General MacArthur. He is scheduled to testify again tomorrow.

General MacArthur has urged the use of the Nationalist troops against Red China. At present, Formosa is being "immobilized" by the U.S. Seventh Fleet to prevent a Red invasion and to prevent Chiang's forces from invading the Mainland.

Prison Cook Discharged After Riots

POINT OF THE MOUNTAIN, Utah, May 21 (UP) — The head cook at the Utah prison was dismissed today as an aftermath of rioting which raged through the new multi-million dollar structure.

There were no serious injuries during the 4½-hour melee Sunday. More than 200 prisoners ranged through the cellblocks and main corridors of the modern prison.

But they couldn't break into the courtyard because the keys they took from guards wouldn't unlock the main gates. Those are controlled electrically.

The situation at the prison remained tense throughout the day, but there were no visible signs of a renewed outburst of temper. Some prisoners in the yard were surly and were reported to have urged some guards to leave at once.

A new prisoner committee of four members, claiming the group which talked with prison officials yesterday did not represent the majority view, was heard. Officials said the talks degenerated into a series of personal dissatisfactions.

Warden Alvin O. Severson announced dismissal of Wallace M. Ostler, chief culinary steward. The convicts had protested that Ostler "couldn't boil water."

Severson said Ostler told him he had been threatened by prisoners when he reported for work this morning. The warden added: "I told him he had better get out."

Ten-Year-Old Child Feared Dead

Man Held in Girl's Disappearance; Police Find Suspected Murder Site

SANTA ANA, Cal., May 21 (INS)—Orange County authorities tonight disclosed they had found what might be a "murder site" in connection with the disappearance of ten-year-old Patricia Jean Hull and booked a hulking 34-year-old Californian musician on suspicion of kidnapping.

The musician was identified as Henry Ford McCracken, who steadfastly denied any connection with the pretty, pig-tailed schoolgirl's disappearance.

Sheriff's deputies Boyd Sturgis and Dan Rio said they discovered blood on the mattress of McCracken's bed and on the walls of the bedroom, kitchen stove and shower curtain in his Buena Park Motel room.

IDENTIFIED BY GIRLS

McCracken has been picked out of police line-ups by two children as the man who molested Patricia and them at a Saturday matinee shortly before her disappearance.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy J. Reynolds of nearby Downey said they had seen McCracken leading Patricia from the theatre. They also picked McCracken from a line-up.

PATRICIA JEAN HULL

Officers said they had also found a blood-stained knife in the musician's quarters. McCracken is a known sex-offender, with a police record.

Authorities, meeting no success in the search for Patricia, expressed fear that she had been murdered and her body dismembered.

WIDE SEARCH

Meanwhile, nearly 1,000 persons, including pilots manning rescue planes from the El Toro marine base, joined a widespread hunt through the nearby orange groves, oil fields and farmlands.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Hull. Her father is a construction foreman and the couple has two other children.

McCracken was arrested when a tavern keeper reported that the musician borrowed his car at 7.45 p.m. Saturday and returned in a "very nervous condition" around 2 a.m. Sunday.

Pleads "No Defence"

With him is his attorney, John E. Selser. Four of Adonis' henchmen also entered the same plea to similar charges.—(AP Wirephoto)

New Booster for Transports

This striking photo shows a transport plane taking to the air, almost straight up, during the first RATO (rocket assist take-off) tests recently conducted in Hagerstown, Md. This rocket take-off was made with assistance of 16 RATO bottles, each producing a thrust of 1,000 pounds. Employment of RATO would enable heavy planes to operate from short fields or unimproved fields, making them available as assault transports. With RATO, take-off run is cut to less than half normal run. —(Central Press Canadian)

Old Cars in Parade

Antique Automobile Cost $5,600 in 1911

By WILLIAM MAVOR

If you are shopping for a new car, don't shrink at the cost; 1951 cars are cheap—at half the price of a brand-new Russell.

Of course, you can't get a new Russell from the showroom today, if you were around in 1911 you could have picked up the spanking new de luxe, seven-passenger machine for only $5,600.

If you didn't prefer the de luxe model, a plain, ordinary five-passenger sedan could be had for half the price; about equal to the cost of common new models today.

Both de luxe and plain makes of the Russell can be seen in Victoria, slightly used, but still able to operate.

FIRE TRUCK

Sixteen numbers, including one La France fire truck, are among a collection of Phillip and Maurice Foster and Clifford Scroggie. Phillip and Maurice operate a Douglas Street Service Station, while Clifford is employed at the Daily Colonist.

The trio plan to show about seven of their refurnished "vintages" in the May 24 parade, including the five-passenger Russell and the fire truck.

The red carriage was formerly Number One at Nanaimo, but was retired three years ago. Its running mate, they say, is still operating from the Nanaimo firehall.

SOLID TIRES

Despite its mileage of 21,944 the truck is being made ready to travel a few more miles on its four cylinders. Maurice estimated that a good 35 or 40 miles an hour could be had from those cylinders, which turn over wheels carrying solid 38 by 4½ tires.

There's no trick to starting the truck. If the battery is in good shape the driver can simply use a starter. If the battery is low, a hand-pumped pressure gasoline feed and the crank will do the job.

The truck was built to carry heavy hose equipment, and is equipped with double rear wheels on a chain drive.

DE DION

Among other units in the collection, started in 1939, are a 1900 De Dion, which the collectors believe is of French origin, and a 1906 Ford and International Harvester car.

The De Dion, and an auto-carrier, are both whipped about by means of a tiller, not a steering wheel. And the A-C has the added feature of only three wheels.

HOBBY

The collection of cars was begun as a hobby in 1939 with Phillip assuming the post of chief buyer. He has tracked over many parts of the province, at times following false leads, but more often than not coming home with a bargain.

Such was the way the de luxe Russell came into Victoria. Phil found it in Vancouver, had it towed from the C.P.R. dock here to its new home.

Rule Revision Means Tests For Rail Men

Revised road rules for all Canadian railways under the Board of Transport Commissioners have got all railwaymen studying intensely.

Normally the men are free and easy, but by August 26, when the rules go into effect, all workers will have had to write and pass a 1,068-question test.

Running-trade workers have always been required to pass a test for their first job but the rule now applies to all trades and regardless of whether the test was first passed 20 days or 20 years ago.

The workers will have extra time to study, though, for the 40-hour week awarded by Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock goes into effect June 1.

Postage On Papers Boosted

OTTAWA, May 21 (CP). — Postal rates for newspapers and periodicals are being boosted to raise post office revenues from that source by $2,000,000 a year.

The increases would go into effect after parliamentary approval of a bill introduced today in the Commons by Postmaster-General Edouard Rinfret to provide the first general overhaul in years in the law governing delivery of Canada's mails.

END SURCHARGE

Some of the sting of the increases will be removed by putting an end to a charge of four cents a pound on any newspaper or magazine more than half composed of advertising. There no longer will be any special charge regardless of advertising content.

Another important change the bill would make arises from last year's controversy over refusal of the mails to Toronto men who were suspected of using them to try to make money under false pretences through sale of bad stocks.

The bill provides for establishment of three-man boards of review to hear representations from people refused use of the mails.

INCREASE OF $2,000,000

Postal officials said current revenues from handling of newspapers and periodicals—second-class matter — run between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 a year. Elimination of the advertising charge would cut them $500,000 but the increased rate charges would leave a net increase of roughly $2,000,000 a year.

(Under the present system a publisher pays 1½ cents a pound for postage if no more than 50 per cent of each paper is composed of advertising. If ads make up more than 50 per cent, he pays four cents for that weight made up of ads. Thus if a daily issue of a newspaper runs to 1,000 pounds and 60 per cent of each paper is made up of ads, the publisher pays 1½ cents a pounds for the first 400 pounds and four cents a pound for 600 pounds.)

Postal authorities said the increases are designed to bring in more money "from that portion of our business which is causing us the greatest loss." One official estimated the increases broadly, taking the advertising step into account, at between 50 and 100 per cent.

RATES UNCHANGED

Existing postage rates remain in effect but these are among other changes:

Mails carried by armed forces of allied countries serving in Canada are exempted from the act in accordance with a promise Canada made the United States.

To prevent the sending of "unpaid items with malicious intent or to cause annoyance and embarrassment," any letter without a stamp can be classed as "undeliverable."

A new clause provides penalties for anyone trying to fake official postal marks.

Some Send Dollar

May 24 Program Return Brings Committee $100

The Greater Victoria Celebrations Committee has received about $100 to date from residents to whom May 24 programs have been sent in the mail.

No charge is made for the 20,000 programs that have been sent out but the committee requests the public to send back 25 cents ("more if you feel like it") to cover the cost of printing the folder.

"The response has been good," said John Priestly, publicity chairman for the committee, "and we expect more when all the programs have been delivered."

They were received by the post office about May 15.

Many persons enclosed more than 25 cents — some as much as $1.

No stamp is needed to send the money back to the celebrations committee.

All-New Canadian Flag Rejecetd by Convention

QUEBEC, May 21 (CP).—The 16th annual convention of the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Canada today rejected a resolution calling for adoption of a national flag for Canada distinct from all others. The Junior Chamber had previously approved the principle of a national flag but voted down one resolution sponsored by two Quebec Province Chambers, from Beauharnois and Levis.

It asked Chamber approval for a "flag which will bear its own emblem distinct from all others and that the above-mentioned decision be made known to the Government of Canada as soon as possible."

Five of nine resolutions were passed by the three-day convention which opened today attended by 220 delegates from across Canada.

Two of the approved resolutions were submitted by the Halifax Junior Board of Trade.

MONDAY HOLIDAYS

The first brought Chamber approval for celebration of five statutory holidays on the nearest Monday following the actual date.

The five are: Victoria Day, May 24; Dominion Day, July 1; Thanksgiving Day in October; Remembrance Day in November and the King's birthday in June.

The second Halifax resolution stated that the Chamber approved the "decentralization of new industry, whether it be for war or peace, to the extent that it is efficient to the long-term stability of the Canada economy."

The resolution noted there are large resources of manpower and material available elsewhere in Canada than in the central provinces where industry is largely located.

APPROVE TAX

A resolution submitted by the Chatham, Ont., and Trail, B.C., Junior Chambers was passed. It approved Federal Government plans for a constitutional amendment giving the provinces powers of indirect retail sales taxation. It said that any increased taxation [illegible] sent time should be levied for defence purposes only.

The Chamber voted down a resolution by the Edmonton Junior Chamber of Commerce that all public appeals by various health organizations be consolidated into one Canada-wide appeal.

A resolution by the Victoria Junior Chamber that divorce proceedings be first introduced in properly constituted family courts for a solution was opposed.

A resolution by the Halifax Junior Board of Trade seeking support of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities to make daylight time uniform in all regions of Canada was opposed.

Ottawa Plans Crackdown On Bookies

TORONTO, May 21 (CP).—Attorney-General Dana Porter of Ontario said today the federal government is expected to take steps to control communications used by bookmakers.

He told the legislature's committee on crime the federal action will probably come "very soon" through amendment of the Criminal Code. He added that such amendment will have the "full approval" of Ontario.

The committee also was told today that Sam Roher, described as publisher of a Toronto scratch sheet, will appear voluntarily as a witness. It was disclosed that Howard Kerr, one-time head of racing-wire service to Windsor bookies, for a time paid for more than 50 telephones and had a monthly phone bill of $1,600.

SUBMIT QUESTIONS

The committee agreed to let Canadian National Telegraphs submit a list of questions to Inspector William Tomlinson of the Ontario Provincial Police but decided against giving a "barrage of solicitors" a chance to cross-examine every witness.

In reply to the questions, Inspector Tomlinson said he had received "full co-operation" from the telegraph company and that in Hamilton it had cut off a direct service between a scratch sheet office and a race track immediately it was asked to do so.

Inspector Tomlinson said barring racing wire services from tracks would make it difficult for bookies to get information.

Coalition Sole Issue In Ireland

DUBLIN, May 21 (Reuters) — The Republic of Ireland's 1,800,000 electors will decide May 30 whether they want to continue their coalition government or whether Eamon De Valera's conservative Fianna Fail party shall rule again.

That issue, for or against coalition government, is the only one to emerge clearly in this quietest of general election campaigns in the republic's history.

It has become a contest of personalities, rather than of party programs.

On one side are De Valera, vigorous though almost 70, and Fianna Fail, the largest single party in Eire. Fianna Fail has 118 candidates for the 145 seats in the Dail (Irish Parliament).

THREE LEADERS

On the other side are the three men who have been leaders in the coalition government since 1948, John Costello, William Norton and Sean MacBride.

Prime Minister Costello is 60, quiet and unassuming. His party, Fine Gael, is sponsoring 77 candidates.

Norton, small and plump, with an aggressive eloquence, leads the labor party which has 36 candidates.

MacBride, 47-year-old External Affairs Minister, founded Clann na Poblachta—the new republican party — in 1936 and was hailed as a new force in Irish politics. The party, which appears to have fallen in popular esteem, is fielding 26 candidates.

FARMERS, INDEPENDENTS

In addition, there are the farmers—Clann na Talmhan — with seven candidates, and 32 independents, some of whom support the coalition.

Altogether, 296 candidates, including seven women, are contesting the 145 seats. In 1948, the total was 405.

Voting will be by proportional representation.

When the Dail was dissolved the state of the parties was: Fianna Fail, 67; Fine Gael, 30; Labor, 20; New Republicans, 6; Farmers, 5; Independents, 17.

Iranian Complacency Toward Reds Amazing

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
A.P. News Analyst

Anglo-Iranian relations appear to have reached a crisis, with the Nationalists of the oil-rich and people-poor little country taking an almost incredible attitude of complacency toward the possibility of falling into the arms of Russia.

The Iranian Government not only has rejected the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company's offer to arbitrate the proposed nationalization of the oil wells but has indicated similar rejection of a direct British Government move to negotiate through a commission.

OBVIOUS THREAT

A Government spokesman told the Iranian Parliament that British and American opposition to nationalization was pushing the country toward Russia, a simulated statement of fact which constituted an obvious threat.

So here we have extreme nationalism in the Middle East going even farther than it has in the Far East.

Nationalist opposition to Europe in the Far East has even produced an important new factor in international affairs — complacency toward Russian imperialism.

Now it has done the same in Iran, a country which was only barely saved from Russian domination six years ago through the intervention of the public opinion of the free world, expressed through the United Nations.

BREAKING CONTRACT

Iran is trying to break a contract by unilateral action which it had agreed not to break except by mutual agreement. The contract may be unfair and breakable as against the public interest."

Even if the contract falls into the classification of exploitation, however, British authorities have agreed to negotiate on it, and there is a strong public interest to balance the scales. That is the interest of the whole free world in keeping Russia away from Iranian oil with which to grease the wheels of war.

Rationing of Metals To Be Invoked June 1

OTTAWA, May 21 (CP).—The Government today announced it will bring rationing of raw aluminum, copper and brass mill products under its own wing beginning June 1.

Previously this was done on a voluntary basis by the mills. Decision to invoke compulsory control, experts said, is only the first step in a long-range plan to cut down on the use of these metals for non-essential production.

As the defence effort absorbs more of these supplies, an "end-use" rationing program may be launched, cutting down, say, the amount of copper that could be used for roofing purposes, or the amount of brass and aluminum that could be used for durable household goods.

SAME SCALE

Meanwhile, no change in the scale of voluntary rationing will be made.

Purchases from mills have been limited to 100 per cent of their 1950 consumption. They will continue to get monthly quotas on that basis, probably until autumn.

Compulsory control was announced by Defence Production Minister C. D. Howe. Along with it will go control over stockpiling by industry. Any industry found to have adequate supplies to meet current production needs will be cut off from further supplies.

POWER POTENTIAL

The rapids and falls of the Nottaway River, which flows into the southeast end of James Bay have a potential of 1,000,000 horsepower.

Debate Echoed

Hong Kong Appears Resigned To Trade Break With Chinese

HONG KONG, May 21 (Reuters). — The main attitude in Hong Kong today is one of resignation, as the people watch the international debate on trade with Communist China.

The debate goes on in miniature here. It differs, however, in two respects from the exchanges of views between London and Washington.

Here, one feels the immediate presence of the Chinese Communists. They are at the gates of Hong Kong, and the colony swarms with their agents.

Also, there is the knowledge that what may be good for the western world may be fatal to Hong Kong.

COMPLICATED

For a century Hong Kong's best interest were identified with prosperous commercial relations with China. Since the World War these have become complicated by the presence of its 17-mile-long frontier of a potential enemy.

Breaking with tradition, many western business men believe trade with China is not essential or morally desirable. Moral objections hardened perceptibly when the heavy casualties of the British Gloucester Regiment in Korea were announced.

For forty years this has been known as Oak Bay's Prescription Chemists, and under the management of Harold Davenport, who took over the business four and a half years ago, the prescription volume has been tripled. The addition of Miss Auchinvole is in accordance with policy of completely trained pharmacists throughout.

Didn't Investigate

Jose Ferrer Admits Sponsoring Fronts

WASHINGTON, May 21 (INS). —Academy Award actor Jose Ferrer declared today he has never been a Communist or Red sympathizer but admitted "sponsoring" groups with concealed Communist connections.

The Puerto-Rico-born stage and screen star said he lent his name "casually and freely, without adequate investigation," to organizations which without his knowledge had hidden ties with the Communist Party.

Ferrer made the statements in a letter to chairman Wood (D., Ga.), of the House un-American activities committee. He is to testify Tuesday in the committee's probe of Red infiltration in Hollywood.

TO TELL ALL

The actor, winner of this year's "Oscar" for his performance in the title role of "Cyrano de Bergerac," promised to give the committee "anything and everything that I have relating to the vital subject of your inquiry."

But he said the committee's subpoena came as a "bewildering shock" and has caused both his wife and himself "considerable damage in our professions" and "some professional unpleasantness."

"I am not and have never been a Communist sympathizer," he said. ". . . I am and always have been opposed to Communism."

Edmonton Sod-Cutters Acquire Fine Lawns

EDMONTON, May 21 (CP).—Edmontonians seeking better lawns have gone on a sod-cutting rampage at a closed city golf course, carting away an estimated $10,000 worth of turf.

Mayor Sid Parsons has threatened police action if the raids continue.

The Prince Rupert course was obtained by the city from the Hudson's Bay Co. for disposal in in lots for residential housing.

"We take the oil and mineral rights when the land is sold," the mayor said. "We must leave the buyer something."

Parks department officials said citizens just moved in and helped themselves after the course was closed.

One person was reported to have carried away seven truck loads of sod.

INSULT TO INJURY

Others added insult to injury. They did not bother cutting their own sod but took turf already cut by the parks department for removal to a new municipal golf course.

Most of the sod was taken from the fairways. The already-cut sod was removed from the greens.

Victoria Man Back in Jail

PORT CREDIT, Ont., May 21 (CP).—Jack Neville, 31, Victoria, one of three men who broke out of nearby Brampton Jail last week, today was sentenced to two years for carrying concealed weapons.

He was also sentenced to one year, concurrent, for having an unlicenced revolver and fined $100 or ten days for speeding and $10 and costs or ten days for not having an operator's permit.

Police said Neville and two others slugged a guard and fled in a stolen truck. They will appear in court Wednesday on charges of breaking jail and assault.

Wounds Fatal To Lieutenant

OTTAWA, May 21 (CP). — The Army today issued its 20th casualty list of the Korean war, reporting that Lieut. Hugh Ross Cleveland of Montreal, was died of wounds.

Lieut. Cleveland, whose next-of-kin, his father, lives at 356 Cote Street, Antoine Road, Montreal, was previously reported wounded in a battle accident, in a list issued May 15. He was the only casualty reported in today's list.

A total of 124 casualties have been suffered so far by the 2nd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, in Korean action. They included 35 dead, 78 wounded and 11 injured in battle accidents.

Lieut. Cleveland is the first Canadian officer reported as a fatality in the war.

Oddities

TOKYO, May 21 (AP).—Two burglars broke into a bank last night and found three safes instead of the one they expected.

Bank guards, although overpowered and tied up, refused to tell which safe held the most money. The burglars picked the first and went to work.

Hours later they got it open. No money.

They left, empty-handed.

OSTENDE, Belgium, May 21 (AP).—A turbaned stranger, glittering with jewels, registered at the Ostende Hotel as "Ali Khan."

The hotel turned out everything but the local fishing fleet in his honor. A picture of Rita Hayworth was dug up from somewhere and placed in the visitor's room.

After a few days, the visitor departed, announcing regally that a secretary would take care of the bill.

Today 22-year-old German Gardin of Bruges, unmasked as an impostor, is charged by police with non-payment of a hotel bill—a big one.

NEW YORK, May 21 (AP).—This is how City Detective John Carroll solved the "Case of the Mama Doll That Would Only Cry Ma."

Mrs. Phoebe Kelly reported a $17,000 diamond ring missing after a maid quit her employment.

Carroll said he visited the maid. During the interview her five-year-old daughter played with a doll that "sounded funny."

Carroll examined the doll, pulled off a leg, and out popped the ring.

Before the operation, the doll said "Ma," afterwards, "Mama."

Cheeseparing in the Postal Service

POSTMASTER-GENERAL Rinfret's new "economies" for the postal service of Canada are a long way from proving themselves as yet. If the volume of complaint heard across the country is a criterion something more than the cost of operation has been reduced, and that is efficiency. To begin with, why did the addition of half a million people to Canadian citizenship rolls call for a reduction in its postal service? Cities with larger populations and rural areas with more homesteads would seem to require additional postal arrangements, rather than fewer. Then, too, the move has not been put in too happy a light by federal apologists who continue to state that no personnel was dismissed, and that all men removed in the scheme have been re-employed by the Crown elsewhere.

It is only to be expected that there would be some dislocation when there is a major shift in personnel. Since most letter carriers are [illegible] trying to re-establish themselves after the late war, the Dominion has picked a poor place for such economies, if indeed there has been any genuine saving at all. In so far as the dislocation goes, Mr. Rinfret says that matters are better now. If irregularities in sorting the mails, delay in deliveries, tardy clearance of airmail covers and visibly overloaded letter carriers remain in evidence as they have this past few weeks, he may have some difficulty in proving his point.

To date, tinkering with the postal service has not been a happy experience, if comment across the country is well founded. Some of this dislocation may in time be cleared up. Meanwhile what Canada is really in need of is a faster postal service, not a slower one. It will be small economy if in the end efficiency is sacrificed for no material gain.

It Is Wiser Not to Confuse the Issue

ATTORNEY-GENERAL Wismer may not be fully reported but a Canadian Press item from Armstrong, B.C., suggests that he is trying to ride two horses simultaneously. While urging an audience to back free enterprise and shy clear of the C.C.F. in this province, a sound thesis in itself, he hints there may be a socialist gold mine at Ottawa and does not mind if his hearers vote C.C.F. in the federal field.

Socialism is all of a piece and it is not wise to picture half of it as enticing and half unpleasant. Even on a provincial level its proponents are better left where they are at present, on the official opposition benches. They would have more scope if holding federal office, but nevertheless they could do more than enough economic harm at the helm of provincial affairs.

Mr. Wismer was of course exercising a customary pre-election strategem of trying to attract all comers to his side, but as a free enterprise politician he would be more consistent by not mixing fundamental philosophies. Socialism is better not trifled with by those who do not believe in it.

The Attorney-General dropped a hint that the next election may come sooner than most people think, which would suggest that the administration may have in mind appealing to the electorate earlier than when its term has run its normal course. This would account for the strenuous campaigning now being done by members of the cabinet all through the province. Some political fences are in need of repair, and apparently they are being given attention.

Of complementary interest is a dispatch from Vancouver which tells of the disbandment of the C.C.F. youth movement in British Columbia because of declining membership. The Coalition regime may be hoping to take advantage of what thus appears to be a lessening of support for socialism as exemplified here by the C.C.F. party.

Public Convenience Should Come First

STRONG opposition aroused here to the Department of Transport's decision to make the public pay for indifferent parking space at Patricia Bay airport was only to be expected. The idea of levying a charge for temporary access to federal property is bad enough in itself; but what makes matters worse in this instance is that the parking area designated is at a most inconvenient distance from the airline terminal.

One of the disadvantages to air travel is the time consumed in getting to and from airports. In the case of travel between Victoria and Vancouver the time taken up in movement by road amounts to considerably more than the time spent in the air. Nothing much can be done about that at present, beyond the highway improvements now in progress at long last. It is strange, however, that the Dominion Government, which is sharing the cost of the Patricia Bay highway project as a means of improving communication with the airport, should then create a new and wholly unnecessary inconvenience by moving the parking area 500 feet away from the terminal buildings. It is this as much as the proposed parking fee that has aroused annoyance in the Victoria and Sidney Chambers of Commerce.

This is a matter in which the Department of Transport should put public convenience first, especially if it is at all concerned about increasing public patronage of the nationally-owned airline to the point where it one day will pay its way.

SO maybe they won't build a hydrogen bomb after all. Good. Enough's enough for this much travailed world.

This big, small, jumbled world.

The Earth, says the gazeiteer, has a superficial area of 196,650,000 square miles. There's a land surface of 57,510,000 square miles. At the equator the globe is 24,902 miles around.

Quite a big place, really, before man started to shrink it. Let's see what he has done.

The Earth is still a vast globular compound, but not to the mind. Science has reduced it for human convenience almost to a dot.

You may board a plane and circle the planet Earth and be home sitting at your fireside again in four days. You may stop en route for bed and breakfast "down under." You may pick up a telephone and speak to someone straight through on the other side of this round ball we call the Earth. Some day soon a screen will bring his image to you as you talk.

What happens today in faraway places you may read about in tomorrow morning's newspaper. A courier will fly your letter anywhere, almost faster than once you could think.

Yes, the Earth has been telescoped. Yet . . .

* * *

Scientists split the atom and released energy; but in the process they solidified human doubts.

Science has made washing easier, but it has exposed more dirty linen than ever before. Knowledge has made crops grow in profusion, but has not prevented them being ploughed back in confusion.

The globe has been contracted into one world—and divided more certainly into two halves.

Ships take people everywhere, but leave people everywhere in the dark about each other. Foreign names are now more familiar, but foreign ways are still remote. History has been made but no historical lessons have been learned.

Never were more things printed for all to read, and never were more minds muddled about what they are reading.

Towers have been erected that send out waves, and the result is a Babel that rivals its predecessor.

Men have learned to meet in conference, so that they may insult one another in public.

* * *

The globe has two poles, geographical, the North and the South; the planet Earth has two other poles, political, the East and the West. And a curtain as opaque as iron keeps them apart.

Yet men are kind—individually. It is in the mass, nationally, that they are unkind. Communications that join nations together have served only to magnify their separateness. Knowing each other better, people know each other less.

Yes, the globe has been shrunk so that countries once left in peace, smaller countries, have drawn the envy of bigger nations which seek to "protect" them with an unsought mantle.

It was a fascinating study, once, was geography.

Time was when you looked at a map and thought of the immensity of the world's land and sea surfaces. Much was then as it appeared—a line, a dot, a contour, and nothing more. Ignorance lent mystery and enchantment to the planet Earth and all it contained.

Knowledge has replaced ignorance but the enchantment has gone. Sometimes it seems a pity.

But at least, it seems, we may be spared the hydrogen bomb.

Gerald Waring Reporting From Ottawa

THE Government will crack down very soon on merchants in several cities who have been using an ingenious dodge to get around the consumer credit regulations.

Such action was foreshadowed by the bill to amend the Consumer Credit Act which James Sinclair, West Coast M.P., who is parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Abbott, introduced in the Commons last Wednesday.

Among other things, the bill would give the Government something it did not have before: power to regulate the rental of consumer goods.

Just how the new regulations will be phrased hasn't been completely decided, but it's a safe bet they'll stop the merchandising practice introduced into Canada by the Saint John, N.B., department store of Manchester-Robertson-Allison Ltd.

* * *

M.R.A., as the store is familiarly known, underwent a complete change of character after wealthy British immigrant Harry Brooks bought the controlling interest in it after the war. Under the presidency of Brooks, M.R.A. began cutting a wide swath in New Brunswick retail trade by selling on long-term, low-installment contracts—the old dollar-down-and-a-dollar-a-week plan.

Last Fall, in a move to combat inflation, the Government restricted consumer credit by establishing minimum down payments, minimum installment payments, and maximum periods for paying for consumer goods.

That action threatened to put a big crimp in M.R.A.'s business, but Brooks was equal to the occasion. He dutifully obeyed the law. He stopped selling on the dollar-down-dollar-a-week plan. Instead, he offered to rent goods to people. It was a perfectly ordinary arrangement except for one ingenious feature: when the amount of rent paid equalled the purchase price, the rent dropped to a token $1.00 a year.

"I'm a humanitarian," he explained, pointing out that his rental plan enabled New Brunswick families to get amenities of life like new washers and refrigerators which they couldn't afford to buy under the tightened credit regulations.

* * *

The Government doesn't entirely agree. But since there is no option to purchase in the M.R.A. rental agreements, which would make them conditional sale agreements within the meaning of the act, the Government heretofore has had no power to curb the practice.

With the passage of the bill now before Parliament, it will have—and not any too soon. Brooks is said to have imported the idea from the United States, where the authorities long since took action to check it. . . . From Saint John, it spread to other Canadian cities, notably Montreal and Windsor.

In the latter city, and in others within range of United States television stations, Canadians have been buying TV sets under these pseudo-rental agreements, openly flouting the spirit of the credit restrictions.

What the Government will do, I am told, is pass a regulation classifying as a sale all rentals of consumer goods where the total rent paid or to be paid equals the purchase price of the goods. This may not enlist Brooks and similar humanitarians into the forces fighting inflation, but it will plug a growing hole in the dike against inflation.

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

ABOUT 5 p.m. on a fine day, we pulled into a prosperous-looking service station on the highway. We waited a minute or two, in the traditional spirit of service, but nobody came bounding out to wait on us. We gave a modest toot on the horn.

When, after another minute or so, no one appeared, we gave a long blast on the horn, and leaned out to look the place over. There was a handsome television mast aloft over the building.

The door opened, and a boy of about 12 or 13, very drowsy-looking and with an air of resentment common to boys of that age, came reluctantly forth. He seized the gasoline hose and twisted off our gas tank cap.

"Did we wake you up?" I enquired kindly.

"No," said the boy briefly.

"Sorry to have blown the horn so rudely," I apologized humbly. "But you get kind of used to people coming on the run, at gas stations. . . ."

The boy gave me a distasteful glance, and shoved the nozzle deeper into the tank, as if to hurry it.

"Have they got cigarettes inside?" I enquired.

The boy nodded.

Inside, I found the small shop empty. But a door was open, revealing an inner room all in darkness, from which came the sounds of a television drama in full fury. I could make out half a dozen people seated in the room. One or two cast brief glances at my disturbing presence, and looked as quickly away. I coughed. Tapped coins on the showcase. Did a little jig with my boots on the floor. Nobody came out. After a full minute or more I gave up and went back out and paid the boy for the gas.

The cost of a television set, in some circumstances, will probably be far more than the price paid for it. The business lost in this case was trifling—a packet of cigarettes. But from now on, I scoot past service stations with television masts. Personally, I like a little service.

Excise Tax Act: Caramel Corn Snacks—Effect of Budget Proposals.

Mr. F. S. Follwell (Hastings South): Mr. Speaker, on a question of privilege, I should like to refer to Page 2589 of Hansard of May 1, where I called the attention of hon. members, particularly of the Minister of Finance, to a product known as Caramel Corn Snacks. I submitted to the minister that the product should be treated in the same way as popcorn, should be outside the Excise Tax Act and made tax free. I was dismayed to find that many hon. members had not heard of this product. The manager of the W. T. Hawkins Company, of Tweed, Ontario, Mr. Armond Turpin, has sent a package of caramel corn snacks for the minister so that he may have the opportunity to decide whether the product is comparable to popcorn. He has also sent a standard package of Cheezies, another product made by this company.

Mr. Ross (Souris): A bottle of beer with it?

New Secret Weapon

MANY hard things have been said about cole slaw, but few people have ever thought of it as a deadly weapon. Last week in New York, however, the familiar mixture of shredded cabbage and mayonnaise made its debut in the field of hand-to-hand combat. Threatened by a holdup man with a gun, a Bronx delicatessen proprietress hurled a 15-pound tray of the stuff in his face, and he fled in disorder—a problem for the dry cleaners rather than the police.

Lawbreakers may be willing to take their chances with bullets and penitentiary terms, but who would not shrink from the prospect of a face-full of cole slaw?

PARKING REGULATIONS

Sir,—The proposal by city council to reduce the time on parking meters from one to a half hour should be strongly opposed.

On a busy day considerable time is wasted securing a meter in the downtown shopping district.

Figure the time taken in walking at least two blocks to store, selecting food and general items, time up at cashier's desk, and return laden to car (not jay-walking). The average Victorian would be paying fine for overparking on half hour meters.

Cannot the city obtain a suitable lot, build a two-story and basement parking building; have weekly and monthly rates for business men, and regular rates for shoppers?

Shorter parking time means more meter-hunting and more bottlenecks.

G. YOUNG.

1057 Moss Street, Victoria, B.C.

PARKING REGULATIONS

Sir,—Your correspondents who write somewhat bitterly protesting attacking on their freedom by the proposal to limit parking at meters to half an hour with a $2 fine for infringement are surely illogical. Is not the change suggested in order that a greater number be able to park? Obviously if A parks an hour he denies B the freedom of parking half an hour. Curiously enough the worst monopolists of parking space are business men, who thereby deny customers access to their places of business.

We must face the fact of the great increase in autos and the necessity of practising self-denial. Many of us can more comfortably leave the car at home and use the bus when our affairs call us to the central part of the city. I have found it much easier than searching for a parking space and worrying about the time when I have found one.

A. T. RAINEY.

FOR BRIDGE REPLACEMENT

Sir,—As I did not release any statement or opinion on the Point Ellice bridge, I was surprised to read in a recent editorial that I was not in favour of prompt action in this matter.

I know of no member of the city council who is not more than anxious to see the bridge erected, and it is only a few days ago that advice was received by the city engineer that final plans would be received from Mr. Grant who was engaged by the city for this purpose.

Mr. Grant is recognized as one of the outstanding experts of this country, the Pattullo bridge being built under his direction, and he has assured us that there is no danger to our present bridge at this time but it is subject to speed limit.

As you are aware the Point Ellice Bridge is examined regularly and has not shown the slightest change for the worse. If it did the engineers would naturally promptly close it.

While there are financial problems such as Federal aid etc., it is most necessary that the bridge be erected and any needless delay is of prime concern not only to the naval base, Victoria West district and to the council, but to the citizens at large.

I am not on the public works committee but am close enough to the picture to give you the above details, and can assure you that I have as keen an interest as anyone in seeing this matter settled.

"PARDON" FOR INNOCENT

Sir,—I enclose a cutting of a case where an old lady served ten months for a crime she never committed. The mistake was then discovered and she was granted "a full pardon."

How can a person be pardoned for something they have not done?

This is adding insult to injury.

F. I. LEE.

From the Lament

He is made one with Nature: there is heard
His voice in all her music, from the moan
Of thunder, to the song of night's sweet bird;
He is a presence to be felt and known
In darkness and in light, from herb and stone.
Spreading itself where'er that Power may move
Which has withdrawn his being to its own;
Which wields the world with never-wearied love,
Sustains it from beneath, and kindles it above . . .

The splendours of the firmament of time
May be eclipsed, but are extinguished not;
Like stars to their appointed height they climb,
And death is a low mist which cannot blot
The brightness it may veil. When lofty thought
Lifts a young heart above its mortal lair,
And love and life contend in it, for what
Shall be its earthly doom, the dead live there
And move like winds of light on dark and stormy air.

—Shelley.

. . . Until You Lose It

(From The Winnipeg Tribune)

THE price charged by Hungary in its international blackmail of the United States in the Vogeler case was high, but it will be well worth it if millions of people on this side of the Iron Curtain heed the moral pointed out by the central figure in the case.

Still haunted by his experiences in a Communist prison, Robert A. Vogeler told a television audience that: "What happened to me can happen to them." Later he made this simple but tremendously important statement: "You never realize what freedom means until you lose it." That is the message that needs to be dinned into the minds of isolationists, neutralists, pacifists and Pollyanna optimists who thing it can't happen here. It is the same old message that has been told to us a thousand times by displaced persons who have come to the free lands on this side of the Atlantic after nightmarish lives under the Nazis, the Fascists or the Communists.

The force of Mr. Vogeler's message, during the recital of which he broke down before the television cameras, should make a deep impression on people who for generations have taken the free way of life for granted.

It was a strange commentary on this freedom, on this tolerance of ours, that the same issue of the paper which reported Mr. Vogeler's broadcast told also of the arrival in Moscow at the head of a delegation of the Canadian-Soviet Friendship Society of Alderman Jacob Penner, of Winnipeg. We do not anticipate that Mr. Penner will have any more difficulty in getting out of Russia for his return trip to Winnipeg than he had in getting in as a friendship delegate.

Looking Back

Through Colonist Files

25 YEARS AGO—A proposal that the city and Oak Bay be amalgamated was tabled by the City Council after several aldermen had said that Oak Bay was not in a receptive mood. Others predicted that within 10 years Oak Bay would be knocking at the city's door, begging for admission.

Sunset Lodge Opened for Elderly Women

Impressive ceremony was held yesterday afternoon at official opening of Salvation Army's large Sunset Lodge, at foot of Arm Street. Lodge will accommodate up to 50 elderly women, who will pay nominal rents. Large crowd turned out for ceremony. Portion of funds collected in current Red Shield campaign will assist in furthering this project. Above, Esquimalt Councillor A. Speers turns key to open lodge. At left is Commissioner C. Baugh, Salvation Army territorial commander, here from Toronto especially for event.

Bedrooms of lodge have been smartly furnished and beautifully decorated. Depending on size of room, they have one, two or three beds. Seen in this picture of three-bed room is Major Florence Thornton, who has been active officer with Salvation Army for 37 years. She is among Sunset Lodge officials. Around two-storey building are spacious grounds, including large lawns, shady lanes and beautiful garden. Property overlooks Gorge waterway.—(Colonist Photos by Bud Kinsman)

Salvation Army Opens Home for Aged Women

By RAY WORMALD

What does the Salvation Army do with money it collects during its annual Red Shield campaigns?

There are hundreds of answers, and all of them are to be found right here in the Greater Victoria area.

As of yesterday, however, there was a new answer. It centres about Sunset Lodge at the foot of Arm Street. The large and comfortably-appointed building was officially opened yesterday afternoon as a home for elderly women.

On hand to open the centre officially was Commissioner Charles Baugh, Salvation Army territorial commander for Canada, from headquarters in Toronto. He has been actively associated with the organization for more than half a century.

KEY PRESENTED

Following a dedicatory prayer by Lieut.-Col. L. Ursaki, F. W. Nicolls presented the lodge's key to Councillor A. Speers, representing Reeve A. L. Thomas of Esquimalt. The door was opened, and in swarmed a large crowd of interested citizens.

Within, the ceremony continued, with Lieut.-Col. Ursaki in the chair.

Messages of congratulation were extended by Victoria's Mayor Percy George; Councillor Speers, Capt. D. J. Proudfoot, representing Premier Byron Johnson; and H. Penman, member of the local Salvation Army advisory board.

Sunset Lodge, an older-type large family home, was purchased some time ago by the Salvation Army. Over many past months extensive remodeling has been done.

Located on spacious grounds overlooking the Gorge, Sunset Lodge will accommodate up to 50 women.

For rents ranging from $35 to $50 per month, the lodge women will have all needs cared for with the exception of clothing.

Already three women make the lodge their home. An additional nine are due there June 1.

Said Major Doris Lighttowler, superintendent of the lodge: "We shall do our best to make this a true home for those who come under its roof. In addition to the beauty of our surroundings we shall strive for an inner atmosphere of love and security." Assisting Major Lighttowler will be Major Grace Robinson and Major Florence Thornton.

NUMEROUS ROOMS

Within the large, two-storey lodge are numerous one, two and three-bed rooms. Each is beautifully furnished and finely decorated. There are six basement rooms, equally good.

Major Clifford Milley, Salvation Army public relations officer for Vancouver Island, thanked the many individuals and organizations which had assisted in founding the lodge.

A portion of the $30,000 which it is hoped will be raised in the current Red Shield campaign, will be directed toward completion of the Sunset Lodge project.

"This is truly an example of Christianity in practice," remarked one of the guests attending yesterday's opening ceremony.

University Players Bring Comedy Here

The University of British Columbia Players' Club will present the James Thurber-Elliott Nugent comedy, "The Male Animal," here Saturday at 8.30 p.m. at Victoria High School.

This hit play, which garnered praise in New York in its opening there in 1940, concerns a youthful, meek university professor who turns into a lion as the result of threats to his academic freedom and academic bliss.

It was presented by the university club in Vancouver last March.

Time magazine called the three-act comedy a "hit" and New York papers were unanimous in their praise when it first ran on Broadway.

Cast in the lead role is Phillip Keatley, president of the Players' Club, and other cast members are Sheila Cameron, Sandy Manson, Wendy Martin, Don Withrow, Frank McMasters, Angela Wood, Elizabeth Davis, Barbara Barnes and Norman Young.

Tickets are on sale at the Marionette Library.

Mosquitoes Battled

Revelstoke Resort Plan May Halt Diesel Threat

REVELSTOKE, B.C., May 21 (CP).—Diesel locomotives and mosquitoes apparently hold the key to the destiny of this Rockies railroad town.

The monster coal-burners which haul the rumbling freighters over the Continental Divide are on the way out as the Canadian Pacific Railway replaces them with Diesels.

The new locomotives threaten to eliminate Revelstoke as a mountain stop by screaming right through, whistling derisively at the coal piles.

So Revelstoke is thinking about making the resort business its future. It would seem a good gamble—from the lookout on Mount Revelstoke you can see 2,000 mountaintops on a clear day. In fact, Revelstoke is attracting more skiers every year (it had a record 231 inches of snow last winter).

MOSQUITOES WIN

But in summer the mosquitoes are enough to drive a person to drink. They were so bad last year that even the golf course was shut down.

A full-fledged campaign against mosquitoes is under way this year. Sackfuls of sawdust soaked in oil are being dropped in the sloughs and surplus army equipment for spraying has been bought.

Revelstoke started as a tough rail construction camp known as Second Crossing. It was named for Lord Revelstoke, who sank the family cash in the then fledgling C.P.R.

The gold rush days, when sternwheelers used to ply the swift Columbia River nearby, also left their mark on Revelstoke. Indeed, the Minto, stubby sternwheeler which was brought from Ontario more than 50 years ago in 1,000 pieces, still is in use, carrying passengers at a leisurely pace down the Arrow Lakes.

But Diesels or not, the favorite story in this town of 3,200 is still a railroad story.

A retired railway conductor was permitted to set up house in an obsolete coach parked on an obsolete siding.

When the divisional superintendent first passed the coach he saw the old conductor sitting outside in the driving rain smoking his pipe.

"I can't do this inside," the old conductor explained, "it's a 'no smoking' coach."

When the superintendent returned with a "smoking parlor" sign, the old conductor was pushing the coach back and forth on his bit of track.

He explained to the superintendent: "My wife's in the bathroom washing her hands and the sign says use only when the train's in motion."

Citizens Plan to Aid Firemen's Families

PETERBOROUGH, Ont., May 21 (CP).—Peterborough citizens today organized a fund-raising campaign to aid families of four firefighters who died Saturday in a $300,000 fire which destroyed a downtown business block and damaged adjoining buildings.

At a civic meeting called by Mayor Max Swanson, representatives of business, professional and religious groups joined an overflow crowd meeting in City Councily chambers in planning projects to raise money for the fund. No objective was set.

Within a few hours of the launching of the campaign more than $4,000 had been subscribed.

BODY FOUND

Last of the four bodies buried under tons of wreckage was found early Sunday morning after hundreds of men worked by searchlight probing the ruins.

Location of the body of Earl Spenceley, a florist who volunteered to fight the fire, ended the search. The others who lost their lives in the blaze which began about 5.30 a.m. Saturday were regular firefighters, Grover Deck, Orville Rome and George Reynolds.

The four men all were married. Besides their widows, they leave 14 children.

Three other men in the building at the time of the collapse were rescued and taken to hospital.

Wismer Says Election Coming Soon

ARMSTRONG, B.C., May 21 (CP). — Attorney-General Gordon Wismer has intimated an early provincial election.

Speaking at a public meeting at Armstrong, a North Okanagan centre, during the week-end, Mr. Wismer said "an election may come sooner than you think."

He urged the meeting to back "free enterprise" in order to prevent the C.C.F. from chasing capital across the B.C. borders.

"If there is a C.C.F. gold mine in the sky," he said, "it's in the federal field, not here. If you believe in socialism, support it at the federal level, for that is the only place it has a chance of working."

He said the British North America Act frustrated provincial socialism by not allowing the provinces to freeze capital inside their boundaries.

Alberta Notes Spread Of Plague, Fever Areas

EDMONTON, May 20 (CP). — Entomologist J. H. Brown of Alberta's Health Department says the boundaries of the province's Rocky Mountain spotted fever and bubonic plague areas are slowly reaching for the populated centres.

In turn, the areas more heavily settled are themselves slowly being extended toward the relatively isolated danger areas.

Mr. Brown said in an interview that is one reason why Alberta, at present free of rats, is striving to keep them out. Rats conceivably could sweep the diseases to the populated areas with terrible results. But he said the spread is gradual now.

"BLACK DEATH"

Now, as in the past, there is no known cure for bubonic plague —the "black death" of history books. Alberta's infected area of roughly 2,700 square miles is the largest in North America east of the Rocky Mountains. That there have been no deaths reported is due to the scattered population, Mr. Brown said.

But the disease is there, carried by ticks and fleas, and in turn by gophers and other rodents, in an area roughly 80 miles east of Calgary, 40 miles north of Lethbridge and about 60 miles west of the flanking Saskatchewan border.

The disease spreads as the carrier animals travel and transmit the infected ticks and fleas.

Mr. Brown said that tests, just resumed for the summer by two university students traveling in a laboratory truck, likely will show the 1951 evidences of both plague and fever increased and extended.

NINE DEATHS

The Rocky Mountain fever area, where 12 cases have been reported with nine deaths, is in the south-east tip of the province next to Saskatchewan.

[illegible] rich irrigation district stretching from Lethbridge to Medicine Hat. That area is growing in population.

Scientists emphasize the importance of keeping Alberta free of rats. It was the deadly combination of fats and fleas that carried the "black death" through Europe in the Middle Ages.

Rocky Mountain fever casualties could also be high although newer anti-biotics have shown varying degress of success in treatment, Mr. Brown said.

Alberta's plan to keep the two diseases in check includes an annual field-checking trip, warnings to the scattered population in the affected areas, rodent-trapping campaigns, anti-rat programs and about 2,500 vaccinations annually in the Rocky Mountain fever area.

Court Refuses to Defer Jailing of High Officials

WASHINGTON, May 21 (INS). —A Federal Appeals Court today refused to postpone the jailing of Commerce Secretary Charles Sawyer and eight other Federal officials on contempt charges and the Government officers immediately appealed to the Supreme Court.

Sawyer and the other Commerce Department and Justice Department officials are scheduled to be jailed at 3 p.m. Thursday unless they "purge" themselves of contempt for defying court orders directing that they return effective ownership of the American President Steamship Lines to the R. Stanley Dollar interests of San Francisco.

ASKED POSTPONEMENT

The officials had asked the District of Columbia Appeals Bench to postpone the jailing until they could appeal the civil contempt conviction, handed down last Friday, to the Supreme Court.

They took today's court action to Chief Justice Carl Vinson in the hope he would postpone the imprisonment.

The situation arose from the five-year-old court fight by Dollar to recover controlling interest in the line, formerly known as the Dollar Steamship Company. Sawyer, as Commerce Secretary, had custody of the line, succeeding the now defunct Maritime Commission which accepted controlling interest as security for Government loans to Dollar in 1938.

DEFIED ORDERS

Sawyer defied court orders last March which held that Dollar was entitled to "effective ownership" of the line and directed the Government to return to the owners some 92 per cent of voting stock in the Pacific steamship service.

The Government contended that the court had not ruled on the interest of the United States in the line and that the return of the stock would jeopardize a suit in the name of the United States now pending before the California Federal court.

Canadians Gain; Wet But Cheerful

By BILL BOSS

WEST CENTRAL SECTOR, KOREA, May 21 (CP)—Pouring rains, perhaps the onset of the long-anticipated rainy season in Korea, failed to dampen Canadian enthusiasm today as troops who have been sitting in defensive positions for three weeks registered another move.

(Boss reported last night that the 2nd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, had made their first move in almost three weeks, leaving strong defensive positions north of the Han River and moving into hills several thousand yards northwest.)

Their spirits high, and with jokes flashing back and forth along the column, the battle-tested Canadians again moved forward unopposed.

GLAD TO MOVE

Bored with their defensive role, the Canadians are glad to be on the go again.

Today's move represented a 5,000-yard advance.

British and Commonwealth forces also gained, but the Scottish and Australian troops who scored it had to fight most of the way through mountain country.

Westward along the front, Brig. John Rockingham toured the area. The commander of Canada's 25th Infantry Brigade, which recently arrived in Korea, delivered his best wishes for the fighting ahead to his troops, who now are beginning to get the "feel" of the theatre.

STILL NOT UNITED

(Boss' cable last night said the Patricias and the 25th Brigade were closer together than they had been since the Patricias sailed for Korea last November. But they still had not been united under Rockingham, who meanwhile had a Filipino battalion serving with his Royal Canadian Regiment of London, Ont., and the Royal 22nd Regiment of Quebec City.)

BOXFORD, England (CP) — A shipment of electric cookers for a block of council houses in this Suffolk County town was delayed. For the time being the occupants did the cooking on outdoor camp fires.

Killing Rattlesnakes Hobby for Minister

VERNON, B.C., May 21 (CP) —A veteran preacher here has an odd hobby—rattlesnake hunting.

Rev. A. C. Mackie, head of a church school, is the modern Saint Patrick who roams the rock bluffs in this Okanagan Valley centre in search of the deadly snakes.

Twenty-four years ago one of his students died of snake bite. He then started his war of vengeance.

Armed with a forked stick, Mr. Mackie has killed more than 1,000 rattlesnakes. In the last year he got 53.

"It's quite an exciting form of recreation, you know," he said today in his study where he has two of his biggest rattler skins tacked on the wall.

DRIED TROPHIES

There were rattler skins hanging from antlers and dried rattles in an old ship lantern and a tin that once contained tobacco for officers of the Royal Navy.

Seventy-two years old, Mr. Mackie is still robust, a typical English cleric with his tweeds and soft leather vest. He founded the Vernon Preparatory School at nearby Coldstream in 1913.

Today at his rustic home on the shores of Kalamalka Lake he described his hunting technique.

"I pin them down with my three-pronged fork," he said. "Then I shoot them with a .22 calibre pistol."

RECORD BOOK

He keeps a black notebook, the "Rattlesnake Book," and in it, like a baseball score card, are recorded his "kills" over the years.

The rattler found here is the Russell viper, a sub-species of the Prairie rattler. Its average size is two feet, six inches. Its rattle can be heard 40 yards away.

"I've never been bitten," said Mr. Mackie. "But I have been pricked on the hand once or twice."

Wall Street Slides Back After Saturday Strength

By The Associated Press

The New York stock market suffered a relapse yesterday after showing signs of a little strength Saturday and prices dropped fractions to around $1 a share.

There were a couple of encouraging signs in the setback, however. The decline had none of the violence of last week's sell-offs and a late rally pulled many issues up from their low points of the day.

The rally came too late and had too little zoom, though, to swing the declining issues over to the gaining side of the ledger.

Railroad stocks led the way downward.

The Associated Press average declined 40 cents at $92.30. For the rails it dropped 70 cents.

There were 629 losses and 235 gains among the 1,121 issues traded. Three stocks hit new highs and 119 new lows.

EASE MODERATELY

In Montreal securities eased moderately in a step-up of the irregular easiness of the early day, towards the close on the Stock Exchange and Curb Market. Trading was moderate.

Industrials, papers and steels led the market with all other groups participating in the downslide, beverages and carriers enjoying the least easiness.

PRICES DOWN

On the Toronto stock market prices declined in quiet trading.

They tended a little higher at the opening after last week's selling but soon slipped downward under a lack of support. Trading continued its quiet streak of the last 13 weeks and volume was about 1,000,000 shares.

Industrials were down the most as a wide list of issues chalked up declines ranging from fractions to more than a point. Papers, steels and utilities lost the most and agricultures, foods, textiles, banks, refining oils, liquors, manufacturing companies and retail stores followed.

Base metals were off fractions. Western oils climbed in early dealings and then became fairly mixed. Golds had little trend or change. Senior producers were balanced.

VANCOUVER QUIET

In Vancouver trading was quiet on the stock exchange. Oils showed firm prices and base metals were mixed, but golds were slightly lower.

On the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, recoveries were made in all grain prices at the close. In the case of barley, flax and rye, early losses were erased and gains substituted. Oats still was lower.

Early in the trade, a carryover of selling came into the market in response to declines in U.S. markets. However, fair commercial demand came in on the declines and prices moved up.

Export buying was in evidence in barley, with reports that 500,000 bushels of this commodity had been sold to France. There also were reports of export business overnight in flax and rye.

London Market Moves Lower

LONDON, May 22 (Reuters).—The Iranian situation continued to weigh heavily on the London Stock Exchange and prices in most sections moved to slightly lower levels today.

Selling however was small and business mainly consisted of levelling of positions with tomorrow the last day of the account.

Speculative sales were encountered by the gilt-edged section, and British funds showed losses of up to ¾. Dullness was widespread among industrials. Bacon shares failed to hold initial gains that followed the British Cvianese interim dividend of 6 per cent. Last year one payment of 10 per cent was made.

After being easier for most of the day engineering issues were showing recovery swings at the close.

Business in oils was small while awaiting the dividend announcements from the Shell and Royal Dutch companies. Prices were lower where changed.

Profit-taking on the recent rise brought small losses to Japanese bonds; others were quietly steady.

Chape offering depressed gold shares, and coppers followed the prevailing trend.

Rare Metals To Be Sought

OTTAWA, May 21 (CP).—Canada is launching a major search this year for new deposits of scarce strategic minerals to aid in her defence build-up.

The government's geological survey said 88 mappings and survey parties will be sent into the north and to nine of the ten provinces.

They will look for scarce tungsten, molybdenum, chromite and antimony, used as alloys for the production of high-grade steel and other metals, and for the development of high-speed cutting tools, radar and other defence equipment.

Two field parties will look specifically for new uranium deposits in the Northwest Territories and North Saskatchewan where rich deposits have been discovered.

The field parties will map the Quebec-Labrador iron region, and scrutinize western areas likely to hold deposits of oil, gas and coal.

Groundwater examinations will be made to test the resources of such industrial areas as Montreal and Vancouver.

Oil Production Up By 39,000 Barrels

CALGARY, May 20 (CP). — Another record has been established for crude oil production in Alberta.

Latest figures released show a daily average production of 152,414 barrels for the week ended May 14. This topped the previous record set during the week of May 7 by more than 39,000 barrels.

The record production followed increased deliveries by interprovincial pipeline to Superior, Wis., and the Great Lakes in Eastern Canada.

A Conservation Board production allowable of 144,577 barrels a day for May also helped in establishing the record.

REDWATER LEADS

Redwater again accounted for most of the increased production as the daily average rose from 63,236 barrels to 91,286 barrels. Leduc produced 39,499 barrels, daily against 32,733 the previous week. All major fields registered production gains.

Daily average production during the week for the remaining fields, with the previous week's figures in brackets, was: Acheson, 957 (357); Campbell, 187 (147); Duhamel, 264 (262); Excelsior, 2,098 (878); Golden Spike, 1,825 (1,294); Joseph Lake, 1,698 (1,262); Lloydminster, 2,631 (456); Stettler, 1,530 (1,331); Turner Valley, 8,720 (8,467); Whitemud, 90 (90). The remaining areas had a combined estimated daily average of 1,735 barrels for both weeks.

FIVE FAILURES

Seventeen wells — 12 oil producers and five failures — were completed in Alberta last week.

The first 138 days of this year have seen 363 wells completed, including 261 oil wells, 15 gas wells and 87 dry holes.

Imperial Oil chalked up most of the week's successes, bringing in four oil wells at Leduc-Woodbend and another three at Redwater.

Several big gas strikes were reported as the search for natural gas went on at an unprecedented pace.

The Trans-Empire-Phillips No. 2 well, in the southeast Leduc extension area, received a series of gas flows up to 6,000,000 cubic feet daily. The tests were run between 5,400 and 5,469 feet in the D-2 zone.

WILDCAT WELL

A wildcat well 13 miles east of Didsbury in the Calgary region received a gas flow exceeding 6,000,000 cubic feet daily in testing between 8,084 and 8,104 feet. Testing is continuing. The well, Bailey-Olds No. 1, was drilled by the A. G. Bailey Co., of Calgary, and associates.

The gas flow measured 2,250,000 cubic feet daily at Royalite-Stony Plain No. 2 well in the Stony Plain Indian Reserve, about 20 miles southwest of Edmonton. Gas came from the interval of 4,098 to 4,108 feet.

The California-Standard-Imperial team placed its 12th oil well on steady production in the Acheson field. The producer, Cal-Standard-Cheson No. 3-11 rated an initial D-3 potential of 1,263 barrels daily.

Reservation rights on 501,834 acres of crown lands were issued by the government during the week.

Headed World's Largest

Noted American Banker, Albert H. Wiggin, Dies

NEW YORK, May 21 (AP)—Albert H. Wiggin, retired chairman of the governing board of Chase National Bank of New York, died today at his summer home in Greenwich, Conn. He was 83.

Born in 1868 the son of a poor Unitarian clergyman, Wiggin rose from an inconspicuous bank clerk to head the world's largest commercial bank. The Chase National, under his tenure, became an international institution and increased its resources from $133,000,000 to $2,648,000,000.

ALBERT H. WIGGIN

With all his business activities—he held directorates in 40 concerns—he still found time for charitable work.

TIME FOR POOR BOYS

"I faced life as a poor boy," he once said, "and no matter how busy I am, I've got time enough to devote to underprivileged boys."

For many years he served as national treasurer of the board of the Boys' Clubs of America, and he donated generously to projects for boys' welfare.

Mr. Wiggin began his business career as a clerk in the Commonwealth Bank of his home town, Medfield, Mass. He moved to the Third National Bank of Boston two years later, and soon became a vice-president of the Elliot National Bank.

PRESIDENT IN 1911

At the turn of the century he was serving as vice-president of the National Park Bank of New York. In 1904 he went to Chase as a vice-president, and became president in 1911.

He was chosen chairman of the New York Clearing House Committee in 1913, and under his leadership $100,000,000 was raised for the protection of New York City loans maturing in London and Paris during the early days of the Great War. Tradition was broken when he was asked to serve a second term as chairman of the Clearing House Committee.

In 1933, near the close of his banking career, he was called to testify before a Senate committee investigating banking practices.

NOT "SPECULATION"

He told how he had helped form three pools to deal in the Chase Bank's stock, and had made large profits. But he denied that this was "speculation." That word to him meant "unsuccessful investments."

From 1921 to 1930 he had negotiated mergers of seven other banks with Chase. Through the merger with the Equitable Trust Company in 1930, the Rockefeller interests acquired a large block of Chase stock.

During the depression he deplored the policies under which the U.S. acquired most of the world's gold, which brought trade to a standstill.

After a trip to Europe he observed that "The situation reminds me of the little boy who was such a humdinger at marbles that in a short time he had no one to play with."

Uncle Wiggily Story - - - By Howard Garis

CHASING THEM AWAY

Bunty the orphan rabbit was so excited after she was saved from the bad daddy fox that, for a few moments, the little bunny child could not say a word. In the rescue party, besides Foxie, Wolfie and Bobbie the bob cat, Bunty now saw Uncle Wiggily. That jolly old rabbit gentleman was twinkling his pink nose as [illegible]

"I think you are feeling better now, aren't you, Uncle Wiggily?" asked Foxie.

"Indeed I am," answered Mr. Longears. "I didn't twinkle my pink nose once after I knew that Bunty was missing, and after I learned that she had gone to the woods with Ki Yi the bad little fox."

"We got here just in time," said Bobbie the bob cat.

"We surely did," said Wolfie. "If it had been a few seconds later that bad daddy fox would have pulled Bunty into his den."

"How did you happen to go off in the woods with Ki Yi the little fox?" asked Uncle Wiggily of Bunty.

"At first, I didn't know he was a fox," replied the orphan rabbit. "I thought he was a little new dog. He said he had heard of Jackie and Peetie Bow Wow, so I thought he knew them and was a friend of theirs. But when Ki Yi led me farther and farther into the woods and didn't show me any May flowers, I wanted to turned around on the path and go to school. But he wouldn't let me."

"Where is Ki Yi and that bad daddy fox now?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh, they ran off in the woods as soon as they saw Wolfie and Bobbie and me," answered Foxie the good fox.

"I wish they would come back here," said Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh, no, please don't wish that!" exclaimed Bunty. "Why do you want Ki Yi and the bad daddy fox and maybe the mother fox to come back, Uncle Wiggily?"

"I don't want them to come back to harm you, Bunty," said the old rabbit gentleman. "I just want them to come back so that I can twinkle my pink nose at them to show them how happy I am."

"I am happy, also," said Bunty. "But I wish I had some May flowers for the Lady Mouse Teacher of Hollow Tree School. And speaking of school, I think I had better go there, don't you, Uncle Wiggily? I suppose I shall be marked late."

"I think not," said Mr. Longears. "Miss Mouse will excuse you when she hears what happened. But I suppose we had better take you back to school, though it is rather a long way from here."

"Oh, dear, and I am so tired," said Bunty sadly. "That Ki Yi little fox led me a long way into the woods and I never found any May flowers for Miss Mouse."

Suddenly a loud whoo-whee-e-e-e-e sound was heard.

"Here comes Chief the police dog in his squad car!" explained Uncle Wiggily. "Miss Mouse said she would send him to help us. But we don't need help now, thanks to Foxie, Wolfie and Bobbie. I think Chief will take you to school in his auto, Bunty."

"That's just what I will do," barked the kind police dog. "Get in, Bunty, Uncle Wiggily, Foxie, Wolfie and Bobbie."

"Thank you, Chief," said Foxie, "but Wolfie, Bobbie and I are going to stay in the woods."

"What for?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"We are going to chase Ki Yi, his daddy and maybe his mother out of these woods," answered Foxie. "They are bad foxes and we don't want them in our woods!"

"No, indeed!" said Wolfie. "Come on! We'll chase them while Chief takes Uncle Wiggily and Bunty to Hollow Tree School."

Chief blew his siren horn and started his car. On the way to school Bunty had an adventure. I will tell you about it tomorrow, if the box of candy doesn't stand on its head and spill the gum drops all over the jelly beans.

No Parking On Route Of Parade

No parking will be allowed on the May 24 parade route, assembly area and dispersal point from 7 a.m. until after the parade, police said yesterday.

All available police, including off-duty personnel, shore patrol and police from the outside municipalities will be on hand to assist in clearing the streets and keep traffic moving.

Motorists will be allowed to use the parade route until about 9:45 a.m. and then they will be ordered off the streets by police.

ASSEMBLY AREA

The assembly area is:

Empress between Quadra and Chambers, Queens between Quadra and Chambers, Pembroke between Quadra and Chambers, and Vancouver between Pembroke and Bay.

The parade will leave Pembroke and Cook, continue south on Cook to Pandora, west to Quadra, south to Yates, west to Douglas, north to Fisguard, west to Government, and south to Superior.

The dispersal area is also prohibited from parking and these streets have been set aside:

Superior between Menzies and Blanshard, Michigan between Government and Douglas, and Government south to Michigan.

ROAD CLEAR

Police also warned there would be no parking allowed on the road leading to the Lookout in Beacon Hill Park during the fireworks display after 7 p.m.

The waterfront road between Douglas and Cook will also be a prohibited area. Motorists have been urged to co-operate with police in keeping all roads clear.

Phone Workers May Announce New Pay Pact

An announcement may be made at the end of May concerning a new wage agreement between the B.C. Telephone Company and employees.

It was learned that May 28 is the earliest possible date for an announcement, immediately following a last meeting in Vancouver of clerical workers.

The wage negotiations affect traffic operators, plant workers and clerks.

TEN PER CENT

Neither union nor company officials would confirm what demands were being negotiated. It is believed, however, that the company has offered ten per cent in face of a higher employees' demand.

Victoria and Nanaimo operators met yesterday while Victoria clerks are to meet and decide on the latest company offer on May 25.

The last meeting after which a joint company-union announcement is expected, is scheduled among Vancouver clerks on May 28.

Approximately 3,200 workers are affected by the negotiations.

EASTBOURNE, England (CP)—A clergyman here needs a motor car for his parish duties. The church said he would have to get a garage first, and the council said he can't build a garage until he gets a car. Now, it's up to the church again.

Kidnapping Was Joyride to Him

Happy reunion is that of the Frenette family. Martin, five-year-old son, centre, was picked up by man in Toronto, who promised he would show boy trains and toys. While police were searching Ontario, man drove Martin to Montreal, then turned him loose on street. Mr. and Mrs. William Frenette, who drove from Toronto to bring boy back home, found Martin none the worse for his "joyride." Police have warrant for the arrest of Frank Maxwell, 29, on charge of abduction.—(Central Press Canadian)

B.C. Forests Said Silent Partners In Big Alcan Northern Development

British Columbia's forests, the province's "greatest friend," were described yesterday by Lands and Forests Minister E. T. Kenney, in observing the first day of Forest Conservation Week, as the "silent partner" in the Kemano-Kitimat power development.

"Without a doubt, the greatest single factor in the new equation of industrial progress revolves around the decision to proceed with gigantic Kemano-Kitimat development for the purpose of producing aluminum," declared the minister.

"This installation will, by 1953 possibly, be the largest producer of aluminum in the world," the minister stated. "According to expert engineers, the site chosen for this development is the finest hyro-electric site in the world not yet harnessed to power."

ALUMINUM

"The production of aluminum for a competitive world market needs a tremendous amount of cheap electric power which, in turn, needs vast quantities of clear, flowing water," stated Mr. Kenney. "The Kemano-Kitimat area's power potential stands in a class by itself."

The minister explained that the reason behind the favorable potential in the Kemano-Kitimat area was the "all-important" watershed," protected and sustained at a constant high level by our greatest friend—our silent partner in all such endeavors—the forests of British Columbia."

"Without the protection of the forests, water tables drop, lakes and rivers recede, and your secondary and then your main river systems begin to show the first danger sign—muddy water," explained Mr. Kenney.

"The minister described hydro-electric power as the life-blood of heavy industry.

"It has made possible our expansion in pulp and paper production, plus an over-all acceleration in manufacturing," he said. "Without the forests there is no power."

"The Department of Lands and Forests has for many years been well aware of the role played by the forests in maintaining industrial production and potential," stated Mr. Kenney. "More and more of the general public have become aware of this situation within the last few years."

"With the period May 19 to May 26 set aside as Forest Conservation Week, let us all reaffirm our belief in the future of our province by thinking and acting in a way calculated to sustain our greatest renewable resources now and forever," urged Mr. Kenney.

"Every week should be Forest Conservation Week so that we might remain constantly aware of the part played by the forests in our daily lives," stated the minister. "We must never let ourselves forget that in B.C. prosperity grows with timber."

He said B.C. today stands on the threshold of an era of industrial expansion never before experienced in its history.

"The door to a prosperity based on sound economic foundations stands open and bids us enter," declared the minister.

Dentists' Fees In Province To Stay Level

Dr. R. Pallen, provincial dental council, Vancouver, told The Daily Colonist yesterday that no boost in dentists' fees is in sight.

By JIM TANG

VANCOUVER, May 21—When Victoria Athletics met the potent Capilano baseball team manager Dick Barnett received some surprise by keeping eight pitchers. He released infielder Gene Gangnon and outfielder John Vick.

It appears now he knew just what he was doing. If his unsteady staff keeps on performing as it did against Vancouver Caps then he will have need for a quantity.

Tonight the Caps roared to a 17-0 shellacking to complete a four-game sweep and set what is believed to be a Western International League record for runs by one team in three consecutive games.

It was Victoria's fifth straight defeat and ended what started out to be a promising road trip. Winning five of the first six games on the trip the A's came home with a five-and-six record which pummeled them from a first-division contender to a tie for seventh place.

HIGH HOPES

After using six pitchers Saturday as the Caporinos crossed the plate 23 times in two games Barnett had high hopes of something better tonight when he sent Jim Hoggatsink in to try to stop the rout.

The veteran southpaw, who had given up only one run in his last two starts and owned an earned run average of 1.74 was humiliated unmercifully by the hard-hitting W.I.L. leaders. Hoggatsink didn't have a thing and was kept in for three innings.

In that time he faced 26 batters, gave up 15 hits, walked three but one batter and was charged with 11 earned runs. Two of the runs were scored after two were out. All nine runs in the second and third innings were scored after Hedge Cheso had fanned the first three batters.

WEAK START

John Tierney started the fourth by walking five men to force in the 15th and 16th runs. He fared better in the remaining innings walking two more and scattering seven hits for a lone run.

Reno Cheso and Dick Sinovic paced the 22-hit Capilano attack. Cheso had two doubles and three singles in five trips and batted in six runs. Sinovic who had six for eight and batted in three runs Saturday had two doubles and two singles and drove in four runs.

Bob Snyder garnered seven Victoria hits for his eighth victory without defeat. It was his seventh start and his seventh complete game.

He said effects of the control might begin to show later. It was said that no real effect of any meat price trends had yet appeared.

Local tomato growers have advanced prices up to 2 and declare tomatoes by 50 cents a case wholesale city dealers say.

This will bring tomato prices to about 35 cents a pound retail, a jump of about three cents.

SHORT SUPPLY

Prices of asparagus, local cauliflower and turnips are a bit higher than last week because they are in short supply. Cucumbers are also scarce but have not advanced in price.

Local lettuce has appeared on the Victoria market and prices are expected to drop during the week.

Welfare Minister Supports Plan for Surplus-Goods Stall

The proposal of Mrs. Barbara Green to operate a stall in the Victoria Public Market with surplus products for the benefit of Victoria's less fortunate has received the blessing of British Columbia Health and Welfare Minister Douglas Turnbull.

"If there are surplus materials and if she can succeed in directing them to people in need then I think the plan is worthwhile," declared Mr. Turnbull.

The idea of a "surplus stall" in the Victoria Public Market was first mentioned in The Colonist daily column of C. E. Mackenzie.

Australian Press Threatened

SYDNEY, Australia, May 21 (CP). —Freedom of the press—real freedom to publish—is in genuine danger in Australia because there is not enough newsprint available for papers to carry out their job of brining news to the people, says newspaper executive William Dunstan.

Dunstan, general manager of The Melbourne Herald and Weekly Times Limited, recently returned to Australia after a survey abroad of the newsprint situation.

He said a serious newsprint shortage in Australia this year is inevitable. Tasmanian mills will be forced to reduce output to 30,000 tons or less because of drought, bush fires and scarcity of technicians. World shortage of paper, plus shortage of shipping, will cut the already small quantity available to Australia from abroad.

STOCKS LOW

Reserve stocks held by metropolitan papers have fallen to dangerously low levels, he added, in spite of reduced consumption. He termed the position of country newspapers as "especially alarming."

Australia would probably use 240,000 tons of newsprint a year if supplies were "free"—against a present consumption of only 150,000 tons, he said.

He said that in the event of war, British supplies expected to total 70,000 tons could be reduced to 24,700 tons; all 30,000 tons from Scandinavia could be lost.

Dunstan said the majority of Australian publishers favor some form of "pooling" of imports. Those not agreeable to the idea believe their sources of supply to be the most secure and reliable.

WANTS LICENCES

"It would be within the power of the Minister of Customs to require import licences for all imported newsprint, and by this means to determine each publisher's imports as it does with Canadian supplies," he said.

Stressing that the position is especially alarming for the provincial and country press, Dunstan said 90 per cent of all newsprint contracts are held by metropolitan publishers.

This was due to the fact that paper merchants who had been relying on the 1950 scale of imports sold most of their supply on firm contract to the metropolitan publishers, reserving what they considered sufficient for country customers.

Peter Barr, Victoria, Vies for Presidency

Hospital Royal Commission, Sweep Demanded by B.C. Legion Delegates

Special to The Daily Colonist

PENTICTON, May 21.—A Royal Commission on hospitalization was demanded today by the 20th convention of the Canadian Legion, B.C. Command, in session here.

As a method of financing the hospital insurance scheme, legion delegates from all parts of the province unanimously endorsed hospital sweepstakes. Victoria and district has been one of the most consistent backers of sweepstakes.

Two men will vie for the post of president, with Peter Barr of Victoria opposing Donald McTavish of Salmon Arm. Island legion branches earlier had said that legion control was centred too strongly on the Mainland, and other Island delegates are expected to seek Command posts.

National conscription was also asked "at this time of world crisis." Cadet training in high schools was endorsed, with expenses to be met by the Department of National Defence.

Reorganization of the Pacific Coast Militia Rangers on a province-wide basis was also sought by the Legionnaires, aroused by the world situation.

Among observers at the convention was Major S. H. Okell of Victoria, D.V.A. official.

Education Minister W. T. Straith called on war veterans to help in the civil defence of Canada.

Speaking at the Sunday opening, he said the veterans could aid by manning civil defence posts now being set up by the province.

All senior posts will be held by veterans. He asked the veterans to be ready to take over the jobs.

Mr. Straith said that while the United States is the most likely to be bombed in the event of war, many Canadian points are vulnerable. In B.C., points that would be in danger are Vancouver, Victoria, Esquimalt, Prince Rupert and Trail. Cushion areas will be set up for the injured and evacuation areas would include the Okanagan.

Provincial president Bernard Isman said the convention came at the most troubled times since the end of the war.

"We have a terrific job to do," he said, "more so at this convention than at any other, and of all the organizations that exist, the most democratic one I know of is the Canadian Legion."

Greetings from the city were given by Mayor W. A. Rathbun. President of Penticton Branch 40, J. R. Coffin, brought greetings from the members.

The convention unanimously endorsed submissions made by the Dominion command to the special parliamentary committee on veterans' affairs last week. It is the body demanded that the Federal government immediately extend the terms of reference of the special committee to allow it to consider all matters relating to the welfare of veterans. This included an immediate across-the-board increase of basic pension rates to veterans and their dependents, and allowances under the War Veterans Allowance Act in line with the increased cost of living.

Delegates condemned the proposed procedure covering supplementary grants to disability pensioners. This is foreign, said a resolution adopted, to the established principles of awarding disability pensions, because it neglects the needs of 85 per cent of those receiving it. The needs of those receiving aid, it was claimed, would be more adequately met by the Legion's requested across-the-board increase in rates.

The resolution was introduced by the provincial executive, and copies will be sent to Prime Minister St. Laurent, Veterans' Affairs Minister Hugue Lapointe, the chairman of the veterans' parliamentary committee, Legion headquarters at Ottawa and all British Columbia M.P.'s.

President Bernard Isman was elected convention chairman. There are 229 delegates in attendance, and sessions conclude tomorrow.

Singapore Bans Export Of Rubber to Red China

SINGAPORE, May 22 (Tuesday) (AP).—Singapore, the British crown colony which is the biggest exporter of rubber, has banned rubber shipments to Communist China, Governor Sir Franklin Gimson announced today.

He disclosed the ban actually has been in force since May 15. Since that date no rubber export licences for Red China have been issued, under destination control measures instituted April 9.

The ban was imposed with the agreement of the governor's council at the request of the British government. It is expected that a special committee will be appointed to regulate prices at which Britain will take over rubber sale contracts made with Red China by Malayan producers and dealers before the ban was instituted.

The announcement came as one British ship, the freighter Nancy Moller, loaded with 3,700 tons of rubber, was headed back to Singapore after interception by a British destroyer near Hainan Island, off the southeast coast of China.

Another ship, the Norbay, of Panamanian registry, with 750 tons of rubber intended for Communist China, is being held in Singapore harbor with an armed guard aboard.

Ottawa Curbs Use of Alloys

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP) —The national production authority today ordered steel producers not to use nickel, cobalt, columbium or molybdenum in filling defence or other priority orders until further notice.

The temporary restraint was made necessary, N.P.A. explained, by a sharp increase in the use of the alloying materials by stainless steel producers in May.

Plans for New Bridge to Be Delivered In Three Weeks, Scurrah Tells Meeting

Plans for a new four-lane Point Ellice Bridge, expected to cost approximately $500,000 to $600,000, may arrive in the city within three weeks.

Alderman Percy Scurrah told Victoria West Community Club last night that three weeks was the latest word from planners in Vancouver.

He said the further work on the bridge by the city was due to the delay in plans. It was expected the cost would be known from the plans, the alderman said.

TOO MUCH FOR CITY

He warned, however, that the cost was too much to be carried entirely by the city.

He indicated that the city felt the Federal Government was interested in the new plans because of the Esquimalt naval base but would not make a commitment until all details could be explained by the city.

He added that a money by-law would have to be passed by voters and that the borrowing market "is not easy."

Answering a query from former alderman Charles Banfield, the speaker said a cement bridge proposal had been discussed with the planning engineer but ruled out.

HOPE FOR STEEL

Mr. Scurrah added that "partial assurance" was available from the Department of Transport for steel delivery on a new structure.

Questioned on a proposed 30-foot clearance of the planned new structure, the speaker said it was designed to alleviate traffic problems often encountered on the Johnson Street Bridge.

He said it did not necessarily follow that because of the higher clearance larger boats would enter the Gorge and there more industrial expansion of the area.

NO CHECKS

Speaking on the safety of the present structure, Alderman Scurrah said that to his "knowledge" there were not any load checks being made. A member of the audience suggested that limits be enforced and traffic be spaced on the bridge.

Also questioned on the need of four lanes, Alderman Scurrah pointed out that according to B.C. Electric Railway Co. estimates, first made in 1945, Victoria would grow 5 per cent per year. He pointed out that even now in Greater Victoria there were 27,500 cars, and that an eye had to be kept to the future.

Group Wants Gorge Cleared

A committee headed by Charles Banfield was appointed by Victoria West Community Club last night to meet with the lands department superintendent on clearing logs and snags from the Gorge waterway.

Club members felt that some of the debris was being pushed into the water by persons clearing land, perhaps on Portage Inlet.

MARINE NEWS

By RAY WORMALD

A good job is being done by all the navies in the Far East. Mail is getting through in good time.

With these brief remarks, Lieut.-Cmdr. C. T. McNair, R.C.N., yesterday told of the Canadian warships serving with the United Nations in the Korean war zone.

He is back in Victoria after five months' service in the Far East as information officer for the Canadian destroyer division. During that time he divided his time among the destroyers Sioux, Cayuga, Nootka, Athabaskan and Huron. He also spent some brief periods aboard various ships of the United States and Royal Navies.

"The teamwork being shown among navies of all the United Nations countries over there is amazing," the information officer said.

NEVER TOO MUCH

"There can never be too much mail delivered to men serving aboard the ships out there," he said, "and home-town newspapers are always appreciated."

Before going to the Korean zone, Lieut.-Cmdr. McNair served as naval public relations officer for three years at Esquimalt. After a brief leave here, he will go to Ottawa early next month for duty with the directorate of naval information.

Taking his place in the Far East is Lieut. Allan Jenkins, former Victoria newspaper man.

ALCION WINS

The Royal Victoria Yacht Club's first long-distance race for auxiliary cruisers was held Sunday, with Max Young's sloop, Alcion, taking top honors. The Ben Temple Trophy was at stake.

Completing the course in seven hours 57 minutes and 40 seconds, the Alcion crossed the finish line one hour and 19 minutes ahead of the scratch boat, Commodore H. A. Wallace's Buccaneer II, and had in addition a time allowance of 22 minutes and 59 seconds. Ned Ashe's May D placed third.

These three vessels were the only ones in a fleet of ten which managed to complete the course from Cadboro Bay to William Head and back. A combination of strong flood tide and light winds on the outward leg was too much for the seven other contestants none of which succeeded in rounding the William Head mark. The race started at 9 a.m.

HALIBUT RECORD

Halibut fishermen off the British Columbia coast are going to establish a record this year.

The season will close May 28, and during the 28-day season the halibutters will have landed the established quota of 25,500,000 pounds of fish.

The season lasted 32 days last year, 34 days in 1949, 32 in 1948, 39 in 1947 and 42 in 1946.

Decisions concerning the halibut fishery on the coast are made by the International Fisheries Commission, with representation from Canada and the United States.

FINAL TOUCH

Final touch on homecoming celebrations of officers and men of the destroyer Athabaskan was a ship's company dance last night at the Club Sirocco.

Such homecoming dances have been enjoyed by men of each of the Canadian warships as they have returned from the Korean war zone.

Since arrival here Thursday, the Athabaskan men have all had an initial 48-hour leave. The warship's men have long leaves of up to 70 days coming to them. Those who are to return to Korean waters will start their leaves tomorrow. A number are from Eastern Canada.

Men who are to leave the Athabaskan for special courses and postings elsewhere, will be going on their leaves later.

COLLISION PROBED

Military boards of inquiry in Seattle probed yesterday to find what caused an Orient-bound troopship and a heavily loaded tanker—both radar-equipped—to collide in the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

All the elements of tragedy were poised when the two ships met in a sudden, grinding crash before dusk Sunday night 60 miles from the mouth of the strait.

But no one was hurt and the ships were able to reach port under their own power.

Panic came close to gripping the troops aboard the navy transport Pvt. Sadao S. Munemori.

As always in a collision involving a tanker, there was grave danger of fire and explosion.

The Union Oil tanker L. P. St. Clair, inbound from San Francisco, was rammed amidships. Three thousand barrels of Diesel oil spilled out of a deep gash that opened a hull tank.

The St. Clair was carrying 60,000 barrels of gasoline and 40,000 barrels of Diesel oil.

The number of soldiers bound for Korea aboard the Munemori was kept secret for security reasons, but the 7,300-ton troopship has accommodations for about 2,000 men.

CIVIL WAR?

Naval men in Halifax are still chuckling about the smoky battle of the big 'un and the "little 'un."

The big 'un is the aircraft carrier Magnificent. The little 'un is the destroyer Micmac.

While anchored in nearby St. Margaret's Bay during exercises last week a boat crew from Magnificent succeeded in making off with Micmac's motor launch and painting out some of the destroyer's numerals.

Next night Micmac had her turn. Two boats set across to the carrier.

One purposely let itself be detected. Its crew, prepared with oil skins, were thoroughly hosed by the carrier's fire equipment.

While this was going on, the other craft attached a large smoke flare with chair and padlock to the Magnificent's anchor cable.

The carrier was filled with smoke for hours.

EXPANDED SERVICE

Expanded freighter service between the Pacific Northwest and Gulf and Cuban ports was announced by two ocean shipping lines in Seattle yesterday.

The Isthmian Steamship Co., said additional service to Gulf Ports will be provided by two Victory-Type freighters.

The Independence Line reported through its agent that service from the Northwest will be extended to Cuba via Central America. Three fast mortorships have been added to the line.

CADETS SAIL

Three Canadian naval ships sailed from Halifax yesterday carrying the first university cadets to visit the United Kingdom.

The destroyer Crescent and Frigates Swansea and La Hulloise will spend a week in Portsmouth, England, after the nine-day Atlantic crossing and then anchor for three days at Rosyth, Scotland.

They will said for home June 23. Approximately 150 cadets are aboard.

SUBMARINE DEFENCE

More Canadians are being trained and more ships are being constructed for anti-submarine operations, a navy spokesman said in Ottawa yesterday.

He was commenting on a New York newspaper report which said the United States navy has for months mounted "on a war-time basis" a round-the-clock anti-sub watch in the Atlantic that is increasing steadily in scope and intensity.

The spokesman said it would be physically impossible for the Canadian navy, with the ships and men available, to maintain a 24-hour submarine watch on the Atlantic.

Jet-Powered Airliners To Be in Use in Year

VANCOUVER, May 21.—The jet-powered de Havilland Comet will be in service on Canadian Pacific Airlines within a year, as scheduled, Grant McConachie, president of C.P.A., said today on his return from a two-week visit to England.

Mr. McConachie was in England for the final acceptance tests of the Comet, two of which C.P.A. has had on order for the past year.

He said the Comets already have been flown 300,000 miles on test flights in all types of climatic conditions and have come through the most exhaustive tests with flying colors.

He also witnessed a Comet taking off with jet-assistance take-off equipment. He said the added thrust on take-off allows the Comet to operate on runways as short as 3,000 feet.

Mr. McConachie said orders for the Comet now total 23, which will occupy the production capacity of de Havilland until the end of 1953.

In addition to seeing the Comet, Mr. McConachie inspected and flew the new British feeder aircraft, the Ambassador. It is a two-engined, high-winged monoplane which will shortly go into operation.

Historical Group Hears Story of Pioneer Mayor

The centenary of the arrival here of William John Macdonald, who was mayor of Victoria in 1866 and 1871, and later a senator, was marked yesterday by the B.C. Historical Association.

Macdonald's story, from young Scottish immigrant to a rich man, a political power in B.C., and builder of Armadale Castle on the waterfront in James Bay, was recounted by his granddaughter, Miss Flora Hamilton Burns.

Macdonald arrived from his native Scotland in May of 1851 in the sailing barque Tory, after a seven-month voyage around Cape Horn.

GREAT EXCITEMENT

Miss Burns did a great deal of research to prepare the paper on her grandfather. She learned that the day of the Tory's arrival, there was great excitement in the harbor and that "there was a burst of fire from a fragment of an old musket, set off by some mischievous boys of the Fort school, which blew off the arm of a man named William Fish, resulting in his death."

A month after his arrival, the Hudson's Bay Company sent Macdonald to San Juan Island to establish a salmon fishery, Miss Burns said. He went to the Island in an Indian canoe.

"The first month William lived under a very primitive shelter," Miss Burns said — "four posts stuck in the ground, with a cedar bark roof, and wolves prowling round all night."

MARRIED

In 1857, Macdonald was married in Victoria to Catherine Balfour Reid, a daughter of Capt. James Murray Reid, who had come here in command of the Hudson's Bay Company brigantine Vancouver, with his wife and three daughters. The first Macdonald home was on Humboldt Street, near the Union Club of today.

Miss Burns said: "In the fall of 1859, Macdonald was persuaded to seek election as a member of the Assembly for Sooke. There was no road, so he and Sheriff Naylor went to Sooke by Indian canoe, and he was elected without opposition. The return trip was so stormy that they had to put into William Head, where the Indians camped for the night, while the new member and Mr. Naylor walked on in the face of wind and rain to Belmont, where Judge Cameron gave them a boat to ferry them across to Esquimalt, from where they walked to Victoria."

RESIGNS

In 1858, Macdonald resigned from the H.B.C. and joined his father-in-law in business. Miss Burns recounted: "It was a time of opportunity and business was booming. Reid and Macdonald built a new wharf and warehouse —which was 'christened' by being used for a ball given by officers of H.M. Ships Plumper and Satellite."

Macdonald prospered through the years, being far-sighted; he once bought a large lot at Yates and Government for $900.

He paid attention to politics for many years and fought to have B.C. join Canada, rather than remain a Crown Colony or become annexed to the United States.

Miss Burns said: "In 1872 the Senate had not become a home for the aged and infirm, inhabited by men long past their creative years. William Macdonald was 42 years old when he was called to the Senate at the peak of his mental and physical powers."

Labor Board, Union Study Action on Lockout Charge

Neither the International Woodworkers of America nor the Labor Relations Board has made a decision regarding an appeal on the dismissal of a lockout charge against Builders' Sash & Door Co. Ltd., 350 Garbally Road.

I.W.A., in co-operation with the board, launched prosecution when it was claimed ten employees were locked out during contract negotiations. Magistrate H. C. Hall ruled that the men were not employed at the time of the charge.

Two union pickets have continued duty in front of the Garbally Road plant. A company spokesman said arrangements were being pressed for an injunction to stop picketing.

Education Major Goal Of Special Forest Week

Purpose of forest conservative week—extending this year from May 19 to May 26—is to focus public attention on Canada's most valuable asset and to urge citizens to help in its preservation.

This statement was made yesterday by J. L. Van Camp, general manager of the Canadian Forestry Association.

"Thousands of Canadians owe their employment directly or indirectly to the forests, and if adequate steps are not taken to protect Canada's trees, the time could come when there would be no mass circulation of newspapers, magazines, or other products which are created from wood," said Mr. Van Camp.

CONSTANT EFFORT

"In a general way, every Canadian realizes the importance of our forests, but too few of us realize that conservation of those forests requires constant effort and attention," he declared. "We can have forests if they are wisely used, and if we can bring about widespread scientific management. For forest management can never be successful without the co-operation of the public."

The Canadian Forestry Association, sponsors of Forest Conservation Week, is a national non-profit organization devoted to the preservation and wise use of Canada's forest wealth. Its year-round program is directed toward encouragement of conservation policies, and public education.

The association noted that in spite of all the efforts of those engaged in Government services and forest industries, more than 2,000,000 acres of forest are destroyed ever year by fire, much of the loss caused by carelessness.

Half-Million Bills Paid By Insurance

Half a million accounts have been paid by the Hospital Insurance Service since its inauguration at the beginning of 1949, it was learned yesterday.

The number of accounts paid is a figure representing about half the population of British Columbia, officials said.

The 500,000 bills paid by the Hospital Insurance Service amount to $40,000,000.

Bills paid range from $20 to $6,000.

Number of bills paid by the service outside the province total more than 2,500.

Previous figures showed the service had paid 450,000 accounts totaling $35,000,000.

Logging Mishap Probed

Inquest Jury Finds Tree Death Accident

A verdict of accidental death was returned yesterday morning by a coroner's jury investigating the death of 16-year-old Floyd Palkey.

The young Indian logger was killed instantly May 17 in the East Saanich area when struck on the head by a cedar tree which split while being felled.

At the inquest, held at Sands Mortuary Ltd., Marshall Palkey —father of the dead man—told Coroner E. C. Hart his son had been working in the woods for just over a year.

Arthur Cooper, working partner of Floyd Palkey at the time of the accident, explained the cedar tree being felled had suddenly split after the two men had made an undercut and were cutting toward it from the other side of the five-foot-diameter stump.

SPRANG OUT

The split portion sprang outward about six feet, hitting Palkey's head. The split portion then fell across the victim's body.

Death had been instantaneous, said Dr. G. Hayne of Sidney, who attended shortly after the accident. Palkey's skull had been crushed.

The logger was employed by the Evans Logging Company of Duncan.

Several witnesses pointed out the cedar tree had been rotten, but there was no way of knowing that before it was felled.

SKILLED, CAREFUL

Michael Underwood, in charge of operations in the area described Palkey as "a skilled and careful logger."

The jury was headed by J. E. Cooper, and included Allen Corlett, Leslie R. Hargreaves, Rocco Curcio, Errol T. Hunter and Charles Shergold.

What to do if you think you suffer from ARTHRITIS

CONSIDER SERIOUSLY that more people in Canada are suffering from ARTHRITIS than from any other single disease.

RECOGNIZE that a gradual stiffening of the joints may indicate the onset of ARTHRITIS.

BEAR IN MIND that medical authorities agree that ARTHRITIS is probably due to a multiplicity of causes. Glandular deficiencies, faulty diet and inadequate rest may play a part. Improvement following cleaning up of focal infection supports the fact that bacterial infection may also be a factor.

REMEMBER that it is advisable to treat ARTHRITIS early, and if you are suffering from stiff joints you should see your doctor without delay.

LANTIGEN LABORATORIES LIMITED urge upon all ARTHRITIC sufferers that they undergo early diagnosis and treatment of this painful disease.

LIKE SO MANY OTHERS you, too, may find that LANTIGEN "C" will help relieve the discomforts of ARTHRITIS and RHEUMATISM and of other germ-caused RHEUMATIC DISORDERS such as LUMBAGO, SCIATICA and NEURITIS.

Mock Invasion of Island Poses First Test of City Reserve Unit

Victoria's new 2455 Aircraft Control and Warning Unit, R.C.A.F. Reserve, will have its first big test in two weeks of intensive war games planned over southern Vancouver Island.

The west coast of the Island will be invaded, and Victoria and Esquimalt will be under threat of capture from July 1 to 15.

The threat will be theoretical but the part played by the Vic- will be a true test of strength.

Under Sqdn.-Ldr. P. D. P. Holmes, the Victoria unit will be alert to provide "friendly" aircraft with word of attacks and provide for interception of enemy planes as well as warning the public.

Civil defence organizations, however, are not included in the plans.

The exercise involving 1,500 airmen will be centered at Abbotsford, in the Fraser Valley, and the R.C.A.F. fighter-bomber base at Tofino will be reopened.

The reserve units will attempt to establish air superiority in southern British Columbia, provide effective air defence, carry out reconnaissance, seal off the land battle and provide offensive air support.

Sqdn.-Ldr. Holmes said he hoped to have 50 men take part in the exercise, which for the group in B.C. will be headed by Group Capt. Jeff Northcott, D.S.O., D.F.C. and Bar, of Vancouver.

Group Capt. M. P. Martyn, Northwest Air Command senior staff officer, will command the manoeuvres.

Officers representing Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Calgary, Edmonton, Vancouver and Victoria reserve units conferred at Edmonton during the week-end with the command staff officers to plan the exercise.

It was not immediately known what part, if any, the Royal Canadian Navy would play to prevent capture of Esquimalt naval base by "enemy troops."

School Board Considering Cut in Rental

The Greater Victoria School Board last night placed under consideration the request of a delegation from the Victoria and District Basketball League for reduction of the rental fee charged for use of the Victoria High School gymnasium.

A new rate asked by the delegation was $7.50 per night for practices and actual games. Present fee charged by the board is $6 for practices and $13 for games.

Delegation head George Fletcher pointed out to the school trustees that low attendance at games had cut revenue to the point where the league would lose money, or be forced to drop the sport here, if a reduction was not effected.

Trustee Austin I. Curtis told the delegation that the fee currently charged was at a "rock-bottom low" and added that it would not be fair to single out one particular group for special consideration.

Trustee E. H. Carey thought that a reduction in the fee would aid continuation of the sport for city youth—"the least the taxpayers can do is provide them with a hall," he said.

The delegation was told that janitor fees and lighting alone nearly use up the $7.50 each night, without taking wear and tear of the building into consideration.

Partisans Face Starvation

Resistance Movement Losing Out To Secret Police, Nature on Baltic

STOCKHOLM, May 21 (Reuters).—The resistance movements in Russian-annexed Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania are in danger of being wiped out after nearly seven years of heroic struggle against Communist aggression.

Russia's secret police are slowly starving out these "forest brethren" as the movements are termed locally.

Reports from the three Baltic countries confirm that Russia's drive is directed first and foremost against the Estonian partisans. They have been hitherto fed by patriotic farmers who were allowed to keep their own homes, although their actual land was collectivized.

But a new decree by Estonia's Moscow-dominated Communist government says that farmers' cottages shall be pulled down. The farmers will be rehoused in communal living centres on the collective farms.

BETTER WATCH

This means they can be more closely watched by the Russian secret police and forced to turn over all their produce to the state instead of reserving part of it for the "brethren."

Russia, rushing up submarine bases, radar stations, military airfield and guided missiles bases on the Baltic coast, is in a hurry to carry out this measure.

Similar decrees to turn the farmers of Latvia and Lithuania out of their homes are reported under preparation.

The Estonian partisans are trying to meet this threat by slowly shifting from their forest headquarters into town factories and offices. To do this, they must obtain "workers' books" in which Estonians' past and present employment is registered.

FOR SALE

Fortunately for them, false workers' books, according to direct reports from Tallin, can be bought for about 1,000 roubles each.

The "brethren" can afford the price because they have not yet exhausted the 4,000,000 roubles haul they made in 1948 by robbing a Russian mail train.

But the Russian secret police is intensifying the hunt of partisans to check this drift from the forests to the towns. They have been sending out patrols to comb the forests. One patrol ambushed and killed "Hans the Terrible," one of the key leaders of the "brethren." The other leader, Elmar Hilp, is still safe. The Russians have put 25,000 roubles on his head but no Estonian has yet betrayed him.

PURGES MADE

At the same time Russia is having "unreliable" officials purged in the three countries.

A Red army general, Johannes Lomsak, has been appointed Minister of the Interior in Estonia, replacing Aleksander Resev. Another Red army man, Leonid Letzman, has taken over Aleks. Kelberg's job as Communist party secretary.

In Latvia three cabinet ministers have been dismissed and replaced by Russians.

Nature as well as these Russian measures has been hitting the partisans hard. They live in caves or open-air camps on dry spots on wooded marshy land. Many have succumbed to this life, made harder by the increasing shortage of food.

A number of independent sources agree in estimating the number of partisans in the three countries at 7,000. Lithuania (farthest away from Russia) has 3,500; Latvia, 2,000; and Estonia (nearest to Russia), 1,500.

Hunting them are a total of about 100,000 secret police, but supporting the partisans are the populations of the three countries, totaling about 6,000,000 people.

Forest Fires Mostly Man-Made

OTTAWA, May 21 (CP).—Man's carelessness is responsible for most forest fires in Canada, the resources department said today.

In releasing national forest fire statistics for 1950, the department said that 88 per cent of last year's fires were "man-caused." This represented an increase of 8 per cent over 1949.

While the total of man-caused fires increased, the number of fires decreased to 5,310 in 1950 from 7,046 in 1949.

The 1950 fires burned over an area of 2,226,765 acres, an increase of 209,900 acres compared with the previous 10-year average. Damage was estimated at $5,000,000 and the cost of fighting the fires at $2,600,000.

SMOKERS TOP LIST

The highest percentage of forest fires was attributed to smokers—23.3 per cent of the total. Campfires were responsible for 18.2 per cent, followed by settlers' fires, 12.4 per cent, and railways 10.6 per cent.

The most destructive forest fires in 1950 were in Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia, where more than 1,500,000 acres were burned.

Separate figures issued for the Yukon and Northwest Territories showed there were 126 fires in the area covering a total of 742,908 acres.
